QUITE POLITE ABOUT IT.

nt Politeness and Effectiveness Went Hand in Hand.

A DARING FEMALE ROBBER.

She Holds Up an Old Lady in a Newark Doorway Before Dark, on the Busiest Street in the Heart of the City, and Then Robs Her.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 24.—The police of this city are not a little chagrined today at their failure to capture a daring female highway robber, who has demonstrated that it is too easy to "hold up" and rob citizens in their very doorways before dark, and on the busiest street in the very heart of the city.

Her victim was Mrs. Susan Felter, a pleasant old lady aged 78, who lives with her son on the top floor of the building 154 Market street. To a reporter Tuesday morning Mrs. Felter told this story:

"I had just returned home from doing a little shopping between 5:30 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was carrying my handbag on my arm. My pocketbook was inside of the bag. Just as I entered the hallway from the street down stairs I met a woman coming out. She spoke to me, but her speech was so broken that I didn't understand her perfectly, but think now she said, 'How late is it?'

She Wanted the Time.

"When I asked her what she wanted she said, 'The time, the time.' 'Oh,' I replied, 'if that's all you want I guess it's about 6 o'clock,' and I started to go upstairs. Before I knew what she was doing she grabbed the bag from my arm, opened it and took out the pocketbook. I tried to stop her, but she pushed me up against the wall and held me with one arm while she opened the hall door with the other. Then she ran down the street as fast as she could go.

"I screamed, but I can't make much of a noise, and no one heard me, and then, too, the woman had shut all the doors in the halls. I tried to get into Well's tobacco factory, on the ground floor, but there was no one there, so I came up on the next floor, where the Kramers live, and told them I had been robbed. By that time the woman had got away, and when my boy came home he went and told the police. I hope they'll find her, but I guess she's a cute one. That's about all there is to it."

"Quite Polite About It—Quite Polite."

It was so dark in the hallway and Mrs. Feller's eyesight is so poor that she is unable to give a perfect description of her assailant, but thinks she was a German woman about 30 years old. She wore a small black hat, dark cloak and dress and fur tippet.

People were constantly passing the hall doorway at the time, and William Greason, Mrs. Felter's son-in-law, has a restaurant two doors below, but no one seems to have seen the woman. Mrs. Felter says she never saw her before, and doesn't remember seeing her in any stores she visited or on the street before she entered the hallway.

The police are utterly at sea, and detectives are working blindly on the case. Mrs. Felter's friends think the woman saw her open her pocketbook in some store and followed her home, getting in the hallway ahead of her. The pocketbook contained $23 in bills and forty-one cents in change.

The woman did not attempt to use force until Mrs. Felter tried to regain the bag, and then only held her back against the wall. "Indeed," said Mrs. Felter, "she was quite polite about it—quite polite."

La Grippe Has a Grip on New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 24.—The weekly report of the city's mortality shows the largest number of deaths during any one week ever recorded here except during the yellow fever epidemic twelve years ago. The number is 236. The death rate is due, in the opinion of prominent physicians, to the prevalence of influenza or grippe, of which there are now nearly 30,000 cases under treatment in the city.

Locked Them in to Die.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Dec. 24.—The residence of Victor Rodgers, at Jesseville, was burned, and his two children, aged 3 and 10 years, perished in the flames. Half an hour previous to the discovery of the fire Mrs. Rodgers put the two children to bed, and locking the house went to see her sister, who lives two blocks distant. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Fatal Saloon Row.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Dec. 24.—Robert H. Majors shot and killed James Harris in a saloon in this city. Harris was the aggressor, and had shot Majors three times before the latter drew his revolver and killed him. Majors' wounds are considered fatal.

Rev. Dr. Black Dead.

WOOSTER, O., Dec. 24.—Rev. Dr. Black, D. D., LL. D., professor of languages at Wooster University, died Tuesday morning. He was 65 years of age. Dr. Black was a classmate of Secretary Blaine at Washington and Jefferson College, Pa.

Instantly Killed by a Train.

ROME, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Otis House, aged 55, a truckman of Oneida, while driving across the Central railroad tracks in that village Tuesday morning, was struck by the North Shore limited and instantly killed.

Want the Rev. Mr. Wright.

BUFFALO, Dec. 24.—The congregation of Lafayette street Presbyterian church has decided to send a call to the Rev. William B. Wright, of New Britain, Conn., to assume the pastorate. The salary is $4,000 a year.

From Huntingdon County.

A literary society has been organized by the learned people of our town. It convenes every Tuesday night. The subject up for discussion next meeting night is "Resolved, That natural tendency has more to do with character than education."

Our seamstress, Miss Kate Riley, is at present flying her needle at the home of Mr. Isaac Woomer, at Cryesville.

The season for killing deer is now past, but the thrilling tales of adventure and the many hair breadth escapes from wild beasts, as told by some of our old time hunters, when gathered together in our little country store about six evenings in each week, is almost enough to make one's blood stand on end and their hair curl.

A certain farmer in this community is now a good subject for some law and order society, and if he is not a little more careful he will find himself getting a taste of the law that makes it a crime to treat animals cruelly.

Look for another grand wedding in the near future. It will take place near here.

A case of very brutal treatment of a young orphan lady has been brought to the attention of your correspondent and, if such business as has been told continues you may look for a lengthy and spicy letter in the near future showing up a brute in human guise. A word to the wise is sufficient.

State Librarian's Report.

State Librarian Engle has presented his report for 1890 to Gov. Beaver. In it he corrects the statement that there are about 70,000 volumes in the library and says that by a careful count there are 84,094 volumes. It is urged that a new library building be erected, because the present one is overcrowded, poorly lighted and in danger of fire. In this new building, made fire proof, the State battle flags and valuable archives could be stored. The librarian recommends a reprint of the old laws of the province and State and the second series of State archives. The newspaper files amount to four hundred volumes. The publication of the provincial and State documents from 1882 to 1889 has been greatly appreciated all over the country. By January 1 the Supreme Court reports of the States and Territories will be completed. Dr. Engle praises the law that refuses to permit books to be sent away from the library for reference. The efforts of the librarian have been to secure the best books in every department of literature and science. The necessity for a new catalogue is presented. It is recommended that the change of books be extended to all English speaking countries and the Central and South American States.

Cleaned the Farmer Out.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Dec. 24.—Leland McElroy, a well to do farmer living near Snyder, Rolla county, opened the door in response to a knock, and as he did so he was confronted by two masked men armed with revolvers, who demanded that he hand over his money. Mr. McElroy gave them his pocketbook containing $104. The robbers then searched the house, and found $2,000 in gold and $2,500 in greenbacks. This seemed to satisfy them and they left. They are still at large.

An Old New Yorker Dead.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—The death of John B. Trevor, an old and well known broker, was announced on the Stock Exchange Tuesday. He became a member of the Stock Exchange in 1850, and was for many years the head of the firm of Trevor & Colgate. He was about 65 years of age.

A Little Bit of a Plot.

BUENOS AYRES, Dec. 24.—Several persons have been arrested for being concerned in a plot to overthrow the government. As the conspiracy did not include any well known leaders there is no public ferment regarding it.

A Fashionable Young Man's Bad Break.

VINCENNES, Ind., Dec. 24.—Harley Crews, a fashionable young man of good family, recently raised over $5,000 by forging his father's name. The three national banks of this place lose $1,500. Young Crews has disappeared.

Three New Archbishops.

ROME, Dec. 24.—At the coming consistory Bishop Katzer will be appointed archbishop of the diocese of Milwaukee. Bishop Scannell will be appointed archbishop of Omaha, and Bishop Scanlan archbishop of Salt Lake.

Twelve Girls Drowned.

BERLIN, Dec. 24.—At Selenter lake, in Holstein, yesterday twelve girls were crossing the lake on the ice, when the ice gave way beneath them and all were drowned.

Forger Clark Gets Ten Years.

NEW YORK, Dec. [illegible] Frank W. Clark, the young forger who was recently convicted, was sent to state prison for ten years. This was his second offence.

HIS DIVORCE WAS BOGUS

Mayor Pendleton's Decree Fraudulent and a Forgery.

HE ACTED IN GOOD FAITH.

The Statement That It Was a Fraud Ruined Him Financially and Politically, but He Has Finally Run the Scoundrel to Earth.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The Sun says: The victim of one of the fraudulent divorce mills in this city has run to earth the proprietors of the mill. He is no less a person than William S. Pendleton, who, when he bought his divorce, was mayor of Fort Worth, Tex. The men who sold him the divorce were W. Duryee Hughes, who says he is the brother-in-law of Mr. Williams, once attorney general of the United States under Gen. Grant, and Patrick H. Campbell, both attorneys practicing in this city.

It wasn't many years ago that Hughes and Campbell were in partnership, and they occupied a dingy little office at 322 Broadway. From the facts which are presented it would appear that the superior court of Cook county, Ills., occupied the dingy little office with them, or if it did not, the men who assumed the functions of the court imprinted its seal with a counterfeited die, and forged the name of Clerk P. McGrath, of that court, to a certificate appended to a document purporting to be a divorce, for which Hughes and Campbell received $265. The proof of the forgeries is unquestionable. The connection of Hughes with the procuring of the counterfeited seal is positive.

It Ruined Him.

When the sensation that attended the disclosure of the fact that the divorce Mayor Pendleton had was fraudulent was at its height Mr. Hughes was interviewed by reporters, and asserted positively that the firm of Hughes & Campbell had not been engaged in any divorce suit and knew nothing about any divorce that Mr. Pendleton might have. That statement ruined Pendleton financially and politically. Since then Mr. Campbell has written a letter to Mr. Pendleton to the same effect. The subsequent offer of Mr. Hughes and of Mr. Campbell to pay back the money they received for the divorce doesn't exactly harmonize with either the letter or the interview.

It is now ascertained beyond doubt that Hughes and Campbell procured Pendleton's divorce, the latter acting in good faith, and this assurance is fortified by the positive identification of the seal stamped on the forged document by the man who made the counterfeit seal of Cook county to the order of Hughes. It is alleged that other lawyers than Hughes and Campbell are involved in the business.

Emin's Recall.

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—The recall of Emin Pasha is a leading topic of conversation here. It is now learned that fears were entertained that Emin had conceived the idea of returning to his former sphere of activity in equatorial Africa. To have done so would have been a gross violation of the Anglo-German agreement, and rendered instant intervention on the part of Germany imperatively necessary.

A Roman Catholic Church Burned.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—St. Bernard's Catholic church on Fourteenth street, near Ninth avenue, was totally destroyed by fire Monday morning, between 6 and 7 o'clock. The loss is estimated at $75,000; insurance, $63,000. The church was built in 1875 at a cost, including the ground, of $150,000.

Buchanan Gets Nineteen Years.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Charles Buchanan, alias "Charles Jackson," who killed Mamie Murphy in Chris Johnson's saloon on the night of April 22, was today sentenced to nineteen years' imprisonment in Sing Sing.

WHAT'S IN THE WIND NOW?

A Report That the German Emperor Has Decided to Visit Paris.

PARIS, Dec. 24.—The Gaulois makes the statement that the kaiser has decided to visit Paris incognito, and says that during his stay in the city Emperor William will not reside at the German embassy. Subsequently he will proceed to Cannes and San Remo.

The Gaulois further states that the projected visit of the emperor had been made the subject of a conference between Chancellor Von Caprivi and M. Jules Herbette, French embassador at Berlin. The matter was then referred to M. Ribet, French minister of foreign affairs.

The cabinet was convened on the 18th inst., with M. de Freycinet, minister of war, presiding, and the proposed visit of the kaiser was fully deliberated upon. It is understood that M. de Freycinet voted against the proposition.

Will Ignore the Authorities.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 24.—The ship Selkirk, from New York, carrying oil, put in here with masts carried away and other damage done. She was put in dry dock to discharge her cargo. Admiral Watson, commanding the North American squadron, cabled the agents from Bermuda, protesting against the cargo being discharged in dry dock on the ground that the locality is too near the imperial powder magazine. The agents of the Selkirk say they will discharge the cargo, the admiral and the imperial authorities notwithstanding.

Robbed of Their Gold.

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 24.—John Galligan and John Johnson, two miners, were held up near Salida and robbed of $6,000 in gold, which they had just secured from prospects nearby.

BRIEF MENTION.

The 14-year-old son of W. P. Gilbert, of McKeesport, Pa., who was kidnaped on July 28 last, has been located in Utica, N. Y.

Governor Beaver issued his certificate declaring the city of Allegheny a city of the second class.

The cruiser Newark passed to sea out of the Delaware on her official trial trip at 8.10 a. m. and returned at 7 p. m., having successfully maintained her horse power and speed.

William Duvall, a Baltimore man, wrote to Vice President Morton and twenty-four senators that he had named his first born child after them, and solicited their subscriptions to a benefit to be given in his behalf. All responded with money or silverware. The fraud was exposed by Senator Manderson, who had received one of the letters, remembering that he had seen a similar missive addressed to Senator Morrill.

An overhead electric street railway wire at Newark broke and fell on a truck, setting it on fire. The driver and horses escaped, but the truck with its contents was consumed.

Five men were burned at the New Jersey Steel and Iron works at Trenton by the explosion of molten iron, and it is feared that one of them, Jacob Kraft, is fatally injured.

A Philadelphia man named Lang, consumptive patient undergoing the Koch treatment in Berlin, died after two weeks' treatment.

Tests made with the twelve inch cast steel gun at Sandy Hook proved successful, it throwing shells a distance of fifteen miles.

Another fraudulent divorce, which was granted to Mrs. Mary Miller, of Brooklyn, was traced to the law firm of Hughes & Campbell in New York. William H. Buttner, who appears as the attorney of record in the cases, confessed to having bought the papers back from the woman for $100 when the exposure was made.

Sister Immaculate Heart, whose real name is Mary McQuade, formerly of Philadelphia, tells a story of shocking mismanagement and abuse in the House of the Good Shepherd in Detroit. She said the children were given hard tasks, and were cruelly beaten if they did not perform them, and supplied with food unfit to eat. She accuses the mother superior of violating many rules of the order.

The United States supreme court decided that a wife cannot be accepted as a witness against her husband in a trial for polygamy.

Dr. Shearer, of the Baltimore City hospital, who has returned from Berlin, where he has been studying the effect of the Koch treatment, states that the American doctors are not using the lymph in the proper manner. He thinks the dose should be only half a milligramme.

An escaped nun from the House of the Good Shepherd, of Detroit, Mich., charges the mother superior with cruelty. One girl, she claims, died while being whipped with a machine strap.

One man was decapitated, four strangled and four exiled in a little village near Shanghai, China, for having inhumanly burned up a number of wounded government salt inspectors, with their boat.

While thawing frozen dynamite on the Norfolk and Western railroad, in Wayne county, W. Va., two quarrymen were killed and ten others injured.

Henry Christiansen, of Chicago, 61 years old, killed his wife by choking her to death. He then cut his own throat. He cannot recover.

One hundred and sixteen patients are undergoing the Koch treatment in various New York hospitals. One of the most favorable symptoms noted in the case of those suffering from phthisis is that the cough becomes much less troublesome after inoculation.

Two men were killed and two badly wounded by the cook of the steamer Big Sandy, from Memphis for Cincinnati, with whom they were interfering.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McGowan, of Barre, Vt., were buried together, the husband having died of heart disease while standing by his wife's coffin.

The steamships Thanemore and Oranmore, of the Johnston line, are both overdue, and in the case of the former nearly all hope has been abandoned. The Thanemore sailed from Baltimore Nov. 26 for London, and is supposed to have been lost in a hurricane Dec. 1. She had a crew of about twenty-five men, and carried also a number of cattlemen as passengers.

E. J. Pennington, of Mount Carmel, Ills., says that his new air ship, which will reach a speed of 200 miles an hour and be navigable, will make a trial trip some time during January.

In a drunken affray at Bramwell, W. Va., a man named Budrick fatally shot five of his companions. He was himself killed, and a mob took his body and riddled it with bullets.

Rev. J. F. Carson, the pastor of a Reformed Presbyterian church in Brooklyn, who resigned because the Pittsburg Presbytery declared it heresy to vote, has withdrawn his resignation. A vote of his congregation showed a large majority in favor of his course.

Barker's Bank to Resume.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—The banking firm of Wharton Barker & Co., which recently made an assignment, are about to ask the court to be allowed to resume business, the creditors having agreed to an extension. The creditors have selected a committee to look out for their interests in reference to the disposal of securities now held by the firm.

Train Wreckers Captured.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 24.—A Beatrice special says that officers have just returned from Holmesville with the three Lilly brothers, charged with wrecking the Union Pacific train there Sunday morning. There is positive proof of the guilt of these three. Bridge Inspector Mercer, who was scalded in the wreck, has died.

NILES' FINANCIERING.

The Serious Charge Brought Against Him by Mrs. Parret.

HER WHOLE FORTUNE GONE.

The Wily Financier, Says the Madame, Has Robbed Her of Forty Thousand Dollars, but Niles Says It Is an Attempt to Levy Blackmail.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Nathaniel Niles is under arrest again. Until quite recently he was president of the Tradesmen's National bank, of this city, but he does not hold that position now.

Judge Beach, of the supreme court, issued an order for Niles' apprehension on the complaint of Mme. Eliza Parret, who claims that he appropriated $73,000 worth of her belongings—$57,000 in cash and $16,000 in furniture and fittings which belonged in her famous restaurant, the Cafe Riche, at No. 40 West Twenty-ninth street. Niles was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Terry.

In her sworn complaint Mme. Parret laments that she ever met with Mr. Niles in this fashion:

"I at one time was worth considerable money, but have through misplaced confidence and the advantages which have been taken of the confidence that I have reposed in others, especially the defendant, been reduced to penury and almost want."

Mme. Parret says that a man named James S. Reynolds introduced Mr. Niles to her in May, 1886, telling her that Mr. Niles was president of the Tradesmen's National bank, in this city, and a fine financier. As to the interview Mme. Parret swears:

An Oily Talker.

"The defendant is a very oily talker. I had no business experience. I was not acquainted with the ways of the business and financial world. The defendant ingratiated himself into my confidence by statements that he had my interests at heart and wished to help me make money. Every time I called on him he used to ask after my family."

Mme. Parret deposes and says that she had never before met such a fine gentleman as Mr. Niles.

"At his invitation," she says, "I called at his office every day and told him all about my affairs and all that had happened on the previous day. In this way he soon learned all about my business and all about my private affairs. He often said to me:

"'This wicked world is not worth one cent. Everybody is trying to rob you, madame. Trust in me.'"

Says She Gave Him Her Money.

Mme. Parret says Mr. Niles told her to hand him all big sums of money she had to deposit in the Tradesmen's bank and that he would put them there himself. He told her, she swears, to deposit all her small sums in the bank in the ordinary way through the tellers. She says he kept her bank book and all her papers and the will she made. She swears he got $2,000 from her in this way.

"In June, 1886, the defendant obtained $2,000 from me which he said he would pay to the excise commissioners to have them grant a license for the premises No. 40 West Twenty-ninth street. He wrote repeated letters and said that he had to have the $2,000 to obtain the license, and that this $2,000 was by him to be paid to the commissioners of excise. I do not know whether or not he paid them the money. I did not get a license."

Mme. Parret says she has at various times put as much as $40,000 in cash into Mr. Niles' hands for safe keeping, and that she has never been able to get a penny back. His stereotyped answers, she swears, have always been:

"Give me a general release and I will return to you the will and so much of the money as I choose to give you."

Niles Calls It Blackmail.

Deputy Sheriff Terry brought Mr. Niles into the sheriff's office about noon. Niles denies Mme. Parret's sworn complaint, and says her statements are inspired by a desire to blackmail.

In her sworn complaint Mme. Parret declares that Mr. Niles was compelled to resign from the presidency of the Tradesmen's National bank. She says:

"He has, by reason of his nefarious acts and the bad odor into which he has fallen, been compelled, as I am informed and believe, to resign the presidency of the Tradesmen's National bank."

Mr. Niles is a very active worker in Sunday school circles at his home, Madison, N. J. His neighbors hold him in high esteem as a Christian gentleman. Yet from his sworn testimony before Judge Nehrbas in 1889, when some of Mme. Parret's creditors were trying supplementary proceedings on her, it appears that he was mistaken when he told that he had had absolutely nothing to do with the "French Madame" save as president of the Tradesmen's National bank.

It is a matter of record that in 1888 Mme. Parret transferred the Cafe Bijou, alias the Cafe Riche, alias the Cafe Oxford, No. 40 West Twenty-ninth street, to Frederick Carard, and that Carard at once transferred the property to Nathaniel Niles.

The Cafe Riche Was Raided.

Police Capt. Reilly raided the Cafe Riche on Thursday, April 4, 1889, and the French madame was brought before Justice Duffy on a charge of selling liquors without a license and for keeping a disorderly house.

President Niles was arrested at noon of the same day in the Tradesmen's National bank. The justice paroled him in the custody of his lawyer, Abe Hummel.

It was not until September that Justice Duffy found it convenient to hold the examination. Then a cloud of witnesses testified and left no possible doubt as to the morals of the Cafe Riche and its habitues.

The twenty witnesses for the prosecution appeared before the grand jury on Oct. 9, 1889, but at the last moment Assistant District Attorney Lindsay was taken away from the conduct of the case and replaced by Mr. Goff. Then there were many postponements, and finally on Dec. 6 following, the grand jury indicted Mr. Niles for having leased the premises, No. 40 West Twenty-ninth street, to Mme. Parret for immoral purposes.

Mr. Niles was arraigned at 11 o'clock on Dec. 9 to plead to the indictment. The maximum penalty for this offense in owning and leasing a disorderly house was $500 fine and one year's imprisonment. Of course, Mr. Niles pleaded not guilty. He was never brought to trial.

SAYS IT WAS NOT MURDER.

Col. Corbin Denies a Rumor Regarding Sitting Bull's Death.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Gen. Brooke telegraphs from Pine Ridge agency to Assistant Adjt. Gen. Corbin that he had purposely announced to the Indians in council the death of Sitting Bull, giving them the facts in detail, withholding nothing. This the general did that he might note the effect of the startling information upon them. The Indians received the news quietly. They all recognized the justice of Sitting Bull's death, and said it was a good thing he had thus met his fate. Concerning the death of Sitting Bull Col. Corbin said: "It was not a murder or anything like it. Gen. Miles' dispatch some days ago showed conclusively that he had ordered the arrest of Sitting Bull just in the nick of time. Another hour and he would have decamped to the Bad Lands with his hostile followers. His death was but a result of the conflict between the troops and his braves."

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Dec. 22.—The efforts to secure 400 Indians to go out and persuade the bad reds to come in peaceably to the agency was a failure. Only 114 volunteered. Among the enemy under Kicking Bear, Sitting Bull's death has caused great excitement. Col. Dab and his scouting party drove in the hostile pickets and had a view of one camp in the Bad Lands. Day estimates the force of the enemy at over 1,000. The Sitting Bull fugitives have reached the Cheyenne. Gens. Miles and Carr will be in the war this week. The cowboys along the Cheyenne and the militia claim to have killed so far twenty-four Indians.

Amateur Boxers and Wrestlers.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The finals in the boxing and wrestling bouts for the amateur championship were decided at the Metropolitan Opera house Saturday night. T. Murphy, P. A. C., won in the 105 lbs. (bantam) class from D. O'Brien, M. A. C. J. Rice, V. B. C., defeated H. M. Leeds, Atlantic City A. C., in the final bout of the 135 lbs. class. H. W. Wolfe, Schuykill Navy A. C., won the final of the 135 lbs. wrestling bouts. N. S. Doherty, B. A. C., defeated P. McKenna, S. A. C., in the final bout of the heavy weight class. The 115 lbs. boxing bout was won by B. Weldon, Brooklyn A. C., who defeated B. Mullins, W. S. A. C. Tillistrand, W. S. A. C., and Schneering, P. A. C., then boxed the final bout in the 125 lbs. class, which was won by the latter. The final bout in the 158 lbs. class was between Van Houten and Cahill, and was won by Cahill.

A Desperate Train Wrecker.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 22.—While the pay train of the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas railroad was returning from Woodville to Bayou Sara late Saturday afternoon, Doc Bradford, a notorious criminal, pulled a rail from in front of the engine just as the latter was crossing a trestle. The engine was derailed and the tender and pay car thrown down a steep embankment. Roadmaster Bryan was seriously and Paymaster French badly injured. Bradford attempted to open the safe, but the train crew, who had in the meantime recovered from their surprise, soon overpowered him and placed him in jail at Woodville. Bradford had drawn the spikes and tied a telegraph wire to the rail, with which he drew it from its position and caused the wreck.

Extensive Strike of Switchmen Feared.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Railroad managers are alarmed at the possibility of a serious strike among western switchmen. The western roads were to have given an answer Saturday to the demands of the switchmen that all men, wherever employed, be paid according to the Chicago scale. At the request of railroad managers the roads were given until Tuesday to consider. The switchmen say that an answer must be forthcoming on that date. There are strong indications that if the demand is refused there will be a general strike of all switchmen between Chicago and the Rocky mountains. The demand is supported by the union, and Frank Sweenie, chief of the Switchmen's organization, is in full sympathy with the men.

Bold Young Highwaymen.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Late Saturday afternoon, on Twelfth street, near the Wisconsin Central railway crossing, four young highwaymen pinioned the arms of Henry McCallister, a wholesale potato dealer, pressed a revolver against his head and robbed him of $200 and a gold watch. The robbery was witnessed by seven men, including a watchman, but they made no effort to prevent it, and allowed the thieves to escape.

Prosperous Erie.

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 22.—A review of the manufacturing industries of this city for the year was completed Saturday evening. The manufactured output of Erie in the line of engines, boilers, sawmills, and brass and woodwork foots up $25,000,000, a large excess over last year. The shops are running overtime, and have orders enough on hand to run half a year. Money for business here is plenty and easy to get.

Fatally Stabbed by Her Pupil.

LONGMONT, Colo., Dec. 22.—Miss Ida Laycock, the young woman teacher of District No. 35, five miles northeast of Longmont, was stabbed four times by Bert Myers, a pupil. The cuts are on the collar bone, breast, wrist and abdomen, and will probably prove fatal. The cause of the stabbing is said to be the objection to the proper discipline of the school and a desire to rule the teacher.

SUCCI MAY COLLAPSE.

The Fasting Spectacle Becomes More and More Disgusting.

GROTESQUE HIDEOUSNESS.

That About Sums Up the Appearance of the Man's Face—His Fast Said to Be Something of a Prolonged Opium Spree.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—With every day that passes the Succi spectacle becomes more and more disgusting. The total lack of significance in the whole affair, its supreme silliness, impresses you with greater force every time you go and see it. What attraction it has for human beings in the full possession of their senses is something too mysterious to comprehend.

As for Succi himself, it is only fair to say that he is performing his part of the contract with perfect fairness. He contracted to go without food for forty-five days, reserving to himself the right to deaden the agony of hunger with powerful anodynes. This he has honestly done, or rather will have done by Saturday night, provided there is enough left of him to last until then. The fact is that the man is in such a condition that a collapse at any moment would surprise no one who has closely watched him. His appearance at one time yesterday was something frightful.

Those people who go to see the man simply because in looking at him they look at a human being undergoing torture, got yesterday the full worth of their money, even though the admission price has doubled since the suffering doubled.

Succi's face was a study in misery. A curious effect of his suffering is that it seems to have twisted his face to one side. The grimace which he imagines is an amiable smile is made only on one side of his mouth. Even his nose seems to have fallen into the general slump to one side with the rest of his features, and is twisted awry and out of its normal place

Grotesque Hideousness.

There is, moreover, on one side of the nose a deep indentation, which adds in a peculiar way to the grotesque hideousness of the man's face, in that it seems to add a special force to the snarling like grimace of suffering which is always present.

About the temples and back of the ears Succi's head is like a death's head. The skin, which clings as closely to the bone as though it were drawn tight and pasted down, has a yellow, waxlike appearance, seen in those who have died after a long illness.

There are moments—and this was particularly the case yesterday—when the little Italian's beady black eyes seemed to glitter with a light that strongly suggests insanity.

In fact he has been a number of times so light headed that he could not talk without wandering from the subject. In other words, he has been on the verge of delirium from his sufferings. He looked yesterday at one time more like a fever mad patient than like a man in his senses.

Like an Opium Spree.

Perhaps the powerful drugs that he takes are for something in this, but be that as it may it is very certain that without the drugs Succi would long ago have given way. It is only by their aid that he has been able sufficiently to endure his torments to make them bearable.

That elixir of his, about which there has been so much talk, is nothing more nor less than a compound of the strongest opiates, and from the first day until the present Succi has kept himself loaded with the stuff. His fast indeed is not wholly without resemblance to a prolonged opium spree, except that he has kept himself benumbed with system.

And that is all there is to the show; that is what people go and spend their half dollars to see—a sullen, weazened, miserable looking little wretch who has made himself a sick man to get money by making a show of his sufferings. Could deception more inane and tedious be imagined? Yet people do go to see, and latterly in great numbers.

He May Collapse.

This is a great consolation to Succi. It began to look very much at one time as though instead of making his everlasting fortune by starving himself that he would be sadly out of pocket, in which case Signor Succi, in addition to waking a dead man, who had been dug up, would have looked very much like a fool. But the danger of that is over now. The other fools have come to his rescue, and a pretty steady stream of silver is jingling into his coffers.

It was just 11 o'clock when the little man got up and went tottering out from behind the curtain that conceals his bed. His eyes were bloodshot, his face the color of wax, and his voice was weak and irritable. It will surprise nobody to see something happen to him at any time. He is in a condition where anything might develop. His weight was 105¾, a loss of one pound since Thursday. It was the forty-fourth day of his fast.

Took the Northern Route.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 20.—The government commission having the matter in charge has decided in favor of a northern route for the projected Siberian railway.

Fought in the War of 1812.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 20.—Antoine Lalonde, aged 103 years, died suddenly here yesterday. He fought in the war of 1812.

Two Young Women Instantly Killed.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—Two young women, whose names are unknown, were instantly killed while attempting to cross the Fitchburg tracks, at Somerville. The victims are between 25 and 30 years old.

Evictions in Ireland.

DUBLIN, Dec. 20.—Several additional evictions of tenants on the Smith-Barry estate in Tipperary have been effected in an orderly manner.

THE IRISH CRISIS.

Parnell Is Improving, and McCarthy Deprecates Violence.

KILKENNY, Dec. 20.—Mr. Parnell's condition is much better. The inflammation has very materially subsided, and he suffers less pain. He has left this city for Johnstown, where he will deliver an address.

Mr. Justin McCarthy, leader of the opposition, made a speech in this city in behalf of Mr. Hennessey, the anti-Parnellite candidate for the house of commons from North Kilkenny. In the course of his speech Mr. McCarthy earnestly deprecated such attacks as that which recently resulted in partially disabling Mr. Parnell.

Mr. McCarthy warned his hearers that the unfortunate assault had secured to its victim many votes which he would otherwise never have received. It would have, the speaker said, a most pernicious effect in alienating the respect and sympathy of the Irish race whether at home or abroad. It could not be too severely condemned.

Says Parnell Will Win.

DUBLIN, Dec. 20.—The Freeman's Journal, commenting upon the present political campaign, says: "Mr. Parnell will carry Kilkenny in the approaching election, provided the priests hold aloof from the contest. The conduct of the minor clergy," it says, "places the validity of the elections in jeopardy." Continuing, The Journal says: "We know that home rule without Parnell is impossible. No British statesman would commit Ireland to a man of inferior strength. Mr. Parnell alone can restore the financial situation between Ireland and America."

The Effects of the Lymph.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—All the patients who have been inoculated with Dr. Koch's tuberculosis lymph are reported at the various hospitals to be doing well. Many of them said they felt much better since the injection of the lymph. No evil results have as yet made themselves apparent.

PHILDELPHIA, Dec. 20.—The patient from Laramie, Wyo., who is being treated with Koch's lymp at the Jefferson hospital, received another inoculation yesterday. The gentleman is suffering from incipient tuberculosis of the lungs and larynx, and following the injection of yesterday he exhibited the various symptoms described by Dr. Koch. The three patients being treated at the University of Pennsylvania exhibited a slight reaction during yesterday. No other symptoms except those expected developed.

Mrs. Burke-Roche's Divorce.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—A special to The Press, from Wilmington, Del., says: "Mrs. Frances Burke-Roche, daughter of Frank Work, the well known broker and turfman of New York, has been granted an absolute divorce from her husband, Hon. James Burke-Roche, in the supreme court here. The greatest secrecy was observed in the hearing before the commissioner, and desperate efforts were made to keep the facts from the newspapers. Mrs. Burke-Roche was represented by State Senator George Gray, H. H. Ward and Levi C. Bird, all prominent lawyers of this city. The respondent was not represented by counsel. Owing to the reticent of all parties concerned in the proceedings, it is impossible here to learn the reasons for the decree."

Bookmakers Fined.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 20.—The nine bookmakers on trial in the general sessions court here withdrew the plea of not guilty and instead substituted the plea of non vult. The following bookmakers were fined $500 on each count or $1,000 for both (they were the principals): P. Murphy, Orlando Jones, Eugene Brehm, Frederick Lowe, Sol Lichtenstein, George Johnston and Ike S. Thompson. The following were fined $250 on each indictment or $500 in all. (they were employes and not principals): John G. Fredericks and Mat Corbett. The case against the Linden Park Blood Horse association has gone over for the term.

Fearful Freight Collision.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Dec. 20.—A fearful collison occurred here yesterday in which three men were killed. A special and regular freight crashed into each other through a misunderstanding of orders. The special was going at such a rapid rate that it and the engine with which it collided dashed a mile up the track before they stopped. John West, a fireman, was instantly killed, and Will Coleman, engineer, was so badly crushed that he died. Nat Potter, brakeman, was also killed, and four box cars loaded with fruit were dashed to atoms.

Booming Sherman for Governor.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20.—The suggestion of the name of Senator John Sherman in connection with the gubernatorial nomination has met with a number of strong indorsements, and the more the subject is discussed the stronger becomes the sentiment that Mr. Sherman should be the next Republican candidate for governor. It has been learned that a number of the old leaders in the Foraker wing of the party are not at all favorable to the nomination of Maj. McKinley.

Both Burned to a Crisp.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 20.—The two story frame dwelling house at 35 Drift street, owned and occupied by Mrs. Ann McGuire, was burned early Friday morning. Mrs. McGuire and her 5-year-old grandchild, Annie Donovan, were burned to a crisp. The woman's husband, John McGuire, escaped by jumping from the second story window. The fire is believed to have been the result of a spark dropping from a pipe that McGuire had been smoking in bed.

The Tale of a Bottle.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—A bottle was picked up in the bay off the foot of Fifty-fifth street, Brooklyn, Friday. It contained a scrap of paper on which was written the following: "We are adrift from land in latitude 43 degs. north, longitude 27 degs. west. We are the survivors of the steamer Gambia, which foundered Aug. 10. In the confusion the captain was lost overboard. Only two days' provisions left. Aug. 15, 1890. Gene Farrange, first officer."

The Caucus Financial Measure.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The finance committee has ordered the caucus financial measure reported to the senate favorably, the Democrats reserving the right to vote against it, and individual Republicans reserving the right to move certain amendments.

A Schooner Wrecked.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Dec. 20.—The schooner Julia Nelson, Capt. Benson, from New Bedford for Philadelphia, loaded with lumber, was wrecked on Turtle Gut bar and is now full of water. The crew was saved by the life guards.

IT KILLED THE SHERIFF.

Excitement Just Before a Hanging Caused Heart Failure.

LA MONTAGNE EXECUTED.

The Unnatural Wretch Pays the Law's Penalty for the Brutal Murder of His Brother-in-Law After Being Accused of a Revolting Crime.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Dec. 20.—Remie la Montagne, the murderer of Napoleon Michel, his brother-in-law, was hanged in the jail yard at 9:27 Friday morning.

The morning's tragedy was a double one, for it involved the death of Sheriff Webb as well. A few minutes before 9 o'clock the sheriff arrived at the jail and was admitted to Jailor Read's private apartments. Ten minutes later messengers were running for Dr. Austin, but when he arrived the aged Sheriff was dead. Death was due to acute heart failure induced by excitement. It was a gloomy crowd that filed out into the yard where the gallows was erected, and this incident lessened the sympathy that was felt for the murderer.

La Montagne slept well, and got up at 6 o'clock. Sisters St. Charles and Bernard had watched with him all night, and this morning assisted the priests at the celebration of the mass. La Montagne joined in the service as a matter of necessity, and appeared satisfied when it was over. He then breakfasted lightly and began preparing for the final event.

"God Have Mercy on My Soul."

The executioner entered the corridor and bound his arms, and at 9:15 the procession proceeded to the scaffold, erected in a shed in the yard. Radcliffe, Birchall's executioner, officiated in that capacity on this occasion. La Montagne walked erect, with a firm, pale face. He stepped on to the scaffold, knelt down and was absolved. He rose, and looking vacantly before him repeated a formula that he soon hoped to be in heaven and did not regret it. The noose was adjusted, the signal given, the weight fell, and as the doomed man was jerked up into the air five feet the last words that left his lips were, "God have mercy on my soul."

There were some convulsive movements and then the body hung motionless. In four minutes the pulse was hardly perceptible, two minutes later it ceased to beat and in fourteen minutes life was declared to be extinct. Death resulted from strangulation.

There was a story current that Leda, the murderer's sister, had made a deposition that her brother was innocent of the crime, and that her husband was killed by a well known public man and that she was present at the murder, but the authorities placed no reliance on her tale and the law took its course.

La Montagne's Crime.

The murder for which La Montagne was hanged was a brutal and cold blooded crime, and the story of the circumstances leading to it is most revolting. The murdered man, Napoleon Michel, had suspected that his wife was criminally and unnaturally intimate with La Montagne, who was her own brother, and charged the latter with the crime.

One evening in July, 1888, after Michel and his wife had retired, La Montagne went to the house with a bottle of whisky. The couple arose and sat for a while with their visitor drinking the liquor. When La Montagne left Michel accompanied him a short distance to light him on his way. They had gone but a few yards when La Montagne turned upon Michel and fired two shots at his head. Michell fell, and when he regained consciousness he found himself in his own kitchen, his throat cut, his wrist nearly detached from the arm and all about him in flames. He crawled through a window, managed to reach the house of a neighbor, where he told his story, and died in a few hours.

The Sister Refused to Testify.

La Montagne and Leda Michel, the deceased's wife, were arrested. The former fled, and the latter managed to secure an acquittal on the charge of being an accomplice. She went to the United States. Her brother hid in the woods till a reward of $1,000 was offered by the government for his arrest. Feeling sure that he could not be convicted, he went to a friend who handed him over to the police, it being understood that the money should be used by the friend to pay the expenses of the defense. The recreant wife was arrested in Boston on the charge of arson and was extradited, chiefly with the object of securing her evidence in the murder trial, but she refused to testify and was sentenced to one year's imprisonment and fined $250 for contempt of court. Notwithstanding her silence, La Montagne was found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged.

A Nice Point Raised.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—An Ottawa (Ont.) special, referring to the death of Sheriff Webb just before the execution of La Montagne, at Sherbrooke, says an important point will be raised as to the legality of the hanging. Judge Mosgrave, one of the leading members of the Canadian bench, stated to your correspondent that La Montagne was virtually murdered. The warrant for his execution was to the sheriff alone, but that officer having died before it was carried out it ceased to be in effect, and all authority for the execution was thereby canceled; therefore that whoever pulled the fatal rope did so without any legal authority.

A Publisher Drops Dead.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 20.—M. H. Phelan dropped dead on the sidewalk in this city. He was the publisher of The Western Watchman, and brother of Father Phelan, the editor of the paper. He has for many years been a prominent figure locally, especially in Catholic affairs. He has served two terms as a member of the lower house of the state legislature, and one term as senator, being president pro tem. He was consul general at Halifax, N. S., under President Cleveland. He was born in Halifax fifty-four years ago. He leaves a widow and three children, all grown.

Forefathers' Day Celebrated.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—"Forefathers' Day" was celebrated by the Congregationalclub with a banquet in Music hall last night, where covers were laid for 900 guests. Speeches were made by Governor Brackett, Rev. Dr. Griffis, President Merrill, of Amherst college; Rev. Dr. Alexander McKenzie, of Cambridge, and others.

BRIEF MENTION.

Three men were fatally hurt by the falling of a scaffold in Newark.

The Morris canal has closed for the season. Several boats are frozen in the ice. The owners tried to reach port, but were unable to do so before navigation closed.

The recent gale in the east developed into a great snow storm as it went westward. Railroad trains were snowbound in the Allegheny mountains and travel generally suspended. Drifts thirty feet deep are reported in some places in West Virginia.

Owens Bros., of Providence, R. I., agents of Atlantic mills, have failed for nearly a million.

Adolphe Belot, the French dramatist and novelist, is dead. He was born in 1829.

The Democrats and Alliance men of South Dakota, it is said, have agreed on a scheme to defeat Senator Moody (Rep.) and elect either Judge Tripp (Dem.) or Harden (Alliance).

There is believed to be no prospect of the passage of the Pennsylvania border claims bill at this session of congress.

Governor George L. Shoupe and W. J. McConnell were elected to the United States senate from Idaho for the two short terms, and Frederick T. Dubois was elected senator for the six years' term.

A jury at Hartford awarded Miss Mary Halliday $3,500 damages in her breach of promise suit against Daniel C. Porvard.

An express train jumped the track near St. Joseph, Que., ran 200 yards along an embankment and crashed into an abutment, killing eight people and seriously injuring many others.

At Long Branch, N. J., Rev. James A. Walsh, one of the best known Catholic clergymen in New Jersey, died, aged 51 years.

Miss Kate Drexel, now known as Sister Catherine, will turn over her entire fortune, estimated at between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000, in February to the new order which she intends founding, and which will be known as "The Sisters of the Holy Sacrament," and have headquarters near Washington for two years, and thereafter at Andalusia, near Philadelphia.

A train on the Wheeling & Lake Erie road broke through a trestle near Bolivar, O., and four people were killed outright and a number injured.

Miss Mabel Ismond, of East St. Louis, was shot by her sister-in-law, who mistook her for a burglar. The young woman may die.

The secretary of the treasury sent a statement to the senate showing that the United States will owe Pennsylvania on Jan. 1, 1891, $368,411 on account of advances and expenditures made by the state in the war of 1812.

DEATH IN THE SNOW.

Many Children Perish and Over a Hundred Miners' Families Isolated.

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., Dec. 20.—A towboat has passed through to this point from Coal City, sixty miles up the Big Kanawha river. Its officers tell stories of the great snowfall all along the upper river and in the Elk and Coal river valleys.

The West Virginia branch of the Ohio Central railroad has abandoned all trains, and the Chesapeake and Ohio is nearly as bad. Every telephone wire in the entire valley is down. Not a telegraph wire is working.

At St. Albans the roofs of three houses were crushed in and four people badly hurt.

At Buffalo a child perished in the snow on the way home from school. Five children are reported lost on Thirteen Mile creek, and by this time they are undoubtedly dead.

More than 100 families, mostly miners, are snowed in near Rencevert and their situation is dangerous.

A Railroad Blockaded.

UTICA, Dec. 20.—The Utica division of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad was blocked by the snow storm Friday. The trains were started at various stations along the line, and the first train to arrive in this city from the south was nine hours late.

The Stranglers' Trial.

PARIS, Dec. 20.—When the court trying the case of Michael Eyraud, the strangler, and his accomplice, Gabrielle Bompard, for the murder of Toussaint Gouffe, adjourned Thursday, it was with the understanding that Friday Dr. Liegeois should, at his request, give his testimony in the presence of the court and jury alone. Accordingly the public was denied admission. Dr. Liegeois, who is head of the medical faculty of the College of Nancy, and who maintains the affirmative of the hypnotic theory, was called immediately upon the opening of the day's proceedings. The doctor began his testimony by explaining at considerable length that a hypnotized subject invariably lost all will power, and became as an automaton in the hands of the experimentalist.

Anarchist Boehm's Suicide.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The dead body of a man was found in the basement of Tompkins market at 7 o'clock Friday morning. Beside the body was a revolver with one of its five chambers empty. He had shot himself through the heart. Later the suicide was identified as Frederick Boehm, 23 years old, an anarchist. In his pockets were found two books, one being Bellamy's "Looking Backward" and Tom Payne's "Age of Reason." In a notebook Boehm left a letter to the public stating that he had wilfully taken his own life, as it was the only relief to escape the cruelties and sufferings of the present system.

The Czar's Unhappy Lot.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Several members of the Imperial Yacht club of St. Petersburg are said to be under surveillance in connection with a Nihilist plot. The membership of this club includes some of the grand dukes and many of the high nobility of the empire. The Nihilists are said to be unusually active, and precautions for the safety of the czar have been redoubled.

Dead on the Tracks.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Dec. 20.—The dead bodies of Frank M. Harris and Harry Edwards, the conductor and a brakeman of a freight train, were found last night between the tracks at Montrose station. It is believed the men either fell or were blown from a passing train. The bodies were brought to this city. Both men resided in New York.

Found Dead in a Hallway.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—W. J. Gunning, special correspondent of The Chicago Inter Ocean, who was on a trip around the world, was found dead in the hallway of a Montgomery street lodging house early yesterday morning. It is supposed he fell down stairs in an apoplectic fit.

New York Ledger.

Christmas number. New York: Robert Bonner's Sons.

The Christmas issue of the New York Ledger is a souvenir worthy of the source from which it emanates. It contains a choice selection of articles by George Bancroft, Margaret Deland, James Russell Lowell and others, who would certainly wear the "palm-embroidered coat" were there an American Academy of "immortals."

The veteran historiographer contributes to this periodical the second of his papers on "Oliver Hazard Perry and the Battle of Lake Erie," portraying with role ability incidents of the carnage and the fate of the flagship Lawrence. In watching the vivid scenes depicted here the reader is deeply impressed with the phenomenal activity of the nonogenarian, enabling him to rise superior to physical infirmity, and, like another Titian, continue to cover his canvases to the admiration of mankind.

Amelia E. Barr, author of several much admired stories; begins in this number The Beads of Tasmer,' a novel of prime interest, whose scene is laid on the shores of West Ross, off the coast of Scotland. Between William Black and Mr. and Mrs. Pennell the Land of Mist and the stormy Minch seem familiar localities.

Robert Grant begins 'Mrs. Harold Stagg,' a lively story of American life, displaying a profound knowledge of the life he describes. The opening chapters contain a striking illustration, drawn by H. C. Edwards.

Mrs. Deland's novelette to what end, 'To What End?' is brought to a close, and so is 'Old Elizabeth,' by the Marquise Clara Lanza.

An admirable dialect story is "Forefathers' Day," by Josiah Allen's Wife," who is a much appreciated member of the community. Dr. Julia Holmes Smith gives sensible advice in the current number of 'Common Sense for Mothers and Nurses.'

A beautiful Christmas story of a West Jersey village is 'A Hyppy Leaf,' by Marion Harland, a writer who never fails to touch some secret spring of happiness and set it vibrating for all to hear.

Mr. James Russell Lowell's poem, 'My Brook,' was written especially for this paper; and is a feature of prime importance, in recognition of its value the publishers print it as a supplement in a loose leaf, with a series of appropriate illustrations by Wilson de Meza. In 'My Brook' the poet reverts to the days of his youth "when the hours were so many, the duties so few," and sings some of the dreams suggested by the brook; The imagery is aerial in its delicacy and adapted to the evanescent "will o'-the-wisp" character of the fancies exhibited in the verse. While reflecting on the 'Land of Lost Days,' as he calls the past, Mr. Lowell sings in a regretful strain, as if he mourned the idyllic days.

The closing stanza implies a reconciliation with the Fate that had changed the rural stream, with suggestions of naiads and water lillies, into a poor drudge, supplying 'power' for prosaic factories. But the memory of the old joyous days abides with the poet:

"As the Moores in their exile the keys treasured still
Of their castles in Spain, so have I; and no fear
But the doors will fly open, whenever we will,
To the prime of the past and the sweet of the year."

The sentiment expressed in 'My Brook' places Mr. Lowell on a plane with Mr. Ruskin regarding the want of poetry implied by the flourishing era of manufactures. When the industrial arts, machine-impelled, come in at the door, bringing wealth, plenty and luxurious comfort in their train, poetry—according to these two voices—flies out at the window.

The Christmas number of the New York Ledger comes with a cheerful exterior, in keeping with the festal season. The cover displays a New York girl, with her arms full of parcels (Christmas shopping), hastening forward to greet the subscribers and wish them a "Happy Christmas."

Popularly called the king of medicines—Hood's Sarsaparilla. It conquers scrofula, salt rheum and all other blood diseases.

Mr. Cheapside—I thought you said you were going to Mrs. Brick's five o'clock tea this afternoon. It's after five now.

Mrs. Cheapside—There's no hurry. Her five o'clock tea isn't likely to be ready before seven. She's got the girl I used to have.

A SINGER'S ROYAL GUEST.

How Madame Albani Entertains Queen Victoria at an Informal Tea.

Once every summer Queen Victoria drives over from her Balmoral Castle to the Scottish Highlands home of Madame Albini-Gye, the famous primi donna, where the latter entertains her at an informal tea. For years the Queen has made a practice of this, a compliment of which Her Majesty bestows upon no other woman in the kingdom. It is a return for Madame Albani's appearance at Court each year to sing before the Queen, and to the prima donna it affords an exceptional glimpse of England's royal sovereign.

"No outsiders are ever present," says Madame Albani, "and I see Victoria as a woman; never as a queen."

"How do you entertain your royal guest?" was asked of the prima donna by a friend.

And for more than an hour the great singer held the interrupted interest of a private dinner party with the story of how she served tea for the Queen.

So full of interest was the narrative that Madame Albani was induced to write out the account, and it will shortly appear in The Ladies' Home Journal, of Philadelphia, under the title of "Victoria at My Tea Table." Of its freshness of interest the caption of the article is the best indication.

A copy of the portrait of Queen Victoria, and printed only for Her Majesty and the Royal family, will accompany the article. "It will be my last portrait," wrote the Queen on this presentation copy, which is the only copy possessed outside the royal family.

A Favorite Paper.

The publishers of Youth's Companion have issued a beautiful Calendar for 1891, unique and convenient, which contains also the announcements for next year. Among the new names which will grace this model young folks' weekly paper are the Lord Chief Justice of England—Coleridge, Hon. Seth Low, the venerable Hannibal Hamlin, Camille Flammarion, Sir Norman Lockyer, Gen. O. O. Howard, Rev. Lyman Abbott, Jules Verne, Max O'Rell, Julia Ward Howe, Walter Besant, Benson J. Lossing, the eminent historian, and Carl Lumboltz. Truly a host of names in themselves, sufficient to warrant the success of a paper.

Fine serial stories are promised by Mollie E. Seawell, Rebecca Harding Davis, Julie M. Lippman, H H Boyesen and Elizabeth W Bellamy. A popular series on the latest discoveries in science will treat of the stars, the sun, the moon, the earth, the ocean and Gulf Stream.

There will be another popular series on music by Mme. Albani, Emma Juch, Mme. Nordica, Marie Van Zandt, and Emma Nevada, while Amelia E Barr, Mary A Livermore, Jennie June and Marion Harland will tell what a girl of 16 can do when thrown on her own resources.

Full Prospectus and specimen copies sent free, on application. New subscribers who send $1.75 now will receive the paper to January 1, 1891, and a full year from that date.

WHAT IS SAPOLIO?

It is a solid handsome cake of scouring soap which has no equal for all cleaning purposes except in the laundry. To use it is to value it...

What will SAPOLIO do? Why it will clean paint, make oil-cloths bright, and give the floors, tables and shelves a new appearance. It will take the grease off the dishes and off the pots and pans. You can scour the knives and forks with it, and make the tin things shine brightly. The wash-basin, the bath-tub, even the greasy kitchen sink will be as clean as a new pin if you use SAPOLIO. One cake will prove all we say. Be a clever housekeeper and try it.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. THERE IS BUT ONE SAPOLIO.

ENOCH MORGAN'S SONS CO., NEW YORK.

THE PENNSY'S NEW MOVE.

A Checkmate for the Reading in the Shape of a New Line.

It is a settled fact that the Pennsylvania railroad is to have its own line to the soft coal region in order to checkmate the alliance recently made by the Philadelphia and Reading, the Western Maryland and Baltimore and Ohio roads. Pennsy's new line, for which a charter was issued on Monday, will be known as the Harrisburg and Bedford railroad. and will be about sixty miles in length, running from near Shippensburg, on the Cumberland Valley railroad, to a point at or near Mount Dallas, on the Bedford and Bridgeport railroad. The capital of the new corporation is $2,5000,000. The president is President Kennedy, of the Cumberland Valley railroad, and two thirds of the stock has been subscribed by the Pennsylvania railroad company, the remaining one third being taken by the Cumberland Valley railroad company.

This action of the Pennsylvania railroad company is a serious matter for the Huntingdon and Broad Top road, which, as the only link between the Pennsy's main line and the Cumberland region, has reaped a big revenue from the soft coal transported to the seaboard. The completion of the new line means a shorter route for the Pennsylvania by fifty two miles, and the withdrawal of all its vast tonnage from the Huntingdon and Broad Top road. President George F Gage, of the latter company, is now in Philadelphia, but declines to discuss the matter further than to say that he believes that it is a fact that the Pennsylvania road has decided to build the new road. The statement made in connection with the scheme that the Philadelphia and Reading railroad controlled the Huntingdon and Broad Top road is stated upon the very best authority to be entirely incorrect. The Reading does not own a share in the Broad Top.

Senator Quay's Bill to Increase Pensions.

Senator Quay yesterday introduced a bill granting to all persons whose names are now on the pension list or may hereafter be placed on it who have lost both eyes or both feet or who are otherwise totally disabled a pension of $100 a month. Also to all persons who have lost an arm below the elbow or a leg below the knee $55 a month. Those who have lost a hand or a foot or have been totally disabled in the same are to be entitled to $50 a month. The bill provides further that persons who have contracted two or more disabilities shall receive a sum per month equal to the total of the rates for all of the disabilities mentioned.

Something for the New Year.

The world renowned success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and their continued sale for over a third of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by the Hostetter Company, Pittsburg, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing 60 hands in that department. They are running about 11 months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1891 will be more than ten millions, printed in English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health, and numerous testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, amusement, varied information, astromical calculations and chronological items, etc., which may be depended upon for correctness. The almanac for 1891 can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.:

Sirs:—Last Summer I cured a Curb upon my horse with your celebrated Kendall's Spavin Cure and it was the best job I ever saw done. I have a dozen empty bottles, having used it with perfect success, curing every thing I tried it on. My neighbor had a horse with a very bad Spavin that made him lame. He asked me how to cure it. I recommended Kendall's Spavin Cure. He cured the Spavin in just three weeks.

Yours respectfully,
WOLCOTT WITTER.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,

Gents:—I think it my duty to render you my thanks for your far famed Kendall's Spavin Cure. I had a four year old filly which I prized very highly. She had a very severe swollen leg. I tried about eight different kinds of medicines which did no good. I purchased a bottle of your Kendall's Spavin Cure which cured her in four days.

I remain yours,

Closing Quotations of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Money loaned easy at 4@5 per cent. Exchange steady; posted rates, $4.81@4.85½; actual rates, $4.80@4.80¾ for sixty days, and $4.84¼@4.84½ for demand. Governments steady; currency, 6s, 109 bid; 4s, coupon, 122½ bid; 4½s, do., 103¾ bid.

The stock market was extremely dull this morning, the transactions having been the smallest in volume in several months. The opening prices were from ⅛ to ¼ per cent. below the closing of yesterday. During the early dealings, under the lead of Louisville and Nashville and Atchison, there was a further fractional decline. By 10:30 prices were ⅛ to 1 per cent. below those of yesterday. Toward 11 o'clock there was a firmer feeling, the result of some buying in St. Paul. Prices recovered fractionally by 11 o'clock. In the hour to noon the market was almost stagnant. Prices changed but slightly. At the close values were about as they closed yesterday. Sales 58,100 shares.

A SUCCESSFUL SWINDLE.

Alluring Bait, Lots of Fish, a Rushing Business, Then Vanishment.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—The Chronicle says: The Seattle and Northern Coal company, which opened extensive offices here last month, has vanished, and an investigation shows that a successful swindle has been perpetrated. The company was organized in Seattle about three months ago, with a capital of $500,000. The business was transacted here by a man named Ayres, who issued a circular offering to sell coal, to be delivered after Feb. 1, at from $7.25 to $8.25 per ton.

As the Seattle coal was selling at the time for from $14 to $16 a ton the advertisement was very attractive. The circular advertised to sell only a limited amount of coal, and only then on condition that the purchaser would buy one share of the stock of the company, valued at $5, for each ton of coal ordered. The stock was to be taken back by the company at par value in payment for the coal. Canvassers were employed, and quite a land office business was done.

A. F. Brunbrook was announced as the president; A. C. Macauley, vice president; Ayre Chapin, treasurer; E. Williard, secretary, and M. Macauley, assistant secretary. Macauley and Brunbrook came here for a few days. On Dec. 5 the whole outfit disappeared, and nothing has since been heard from them.

The Marshal Took Money.

BATH, Me., Dec. 20.—In the supreme court of Sagadanoc county the jury rendered a verdict against City Marshal James Bailey for taking money from a prisoner. The case is one of more than fifty which will be brought to recover money taken in this manner. The prisoner, John McDonald, had been four times arrested, and as often released by the marshal upon payment of $5 each time. The court charged that it was illegal to take money in that way from prisoners when there had been no complaint or warrant and no trial. The case will be carried to the law court on the claim that a simple action of assumpsit is not the proper method to right a wrong committed by a police officer.

Against the Lard Bill.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—A protest against the Conger lard bill has been adopted by the Produce Exchange and sent to the United States senate. The protest sets forth the many arbitrary restrictions placed by the bill upon the manufacture and sale of cottonseed oil lard, and states that the members of the exchange are opposed to taxing a legitimate industry for the benefit of another. The document also recommends the passage of the Paddock pure food bill.

He Was Instantly Killed.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 20.—George Winn, superintendent of the Allegheny City fire alarm and police patrol electrical department, fell from the roof of a three story building on Manhattan street at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon and was instantly killed. It was thought that he came in contact with a live electric light wire and was knocked from the roof by a shock of electricity.

The Queen Goes to Osborne.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The queen started for Osborne house Friday in the midst of a blinding snow storm which followed the imperial train to Portsmouth. Clear weather, however, prevailed during the passage to Cowes.

Robbed Ticket Office and Agent.

LIMA, O., Dec. 20.—Three armed men last night entered the Chicago and Erie ticket office at Kemp, seven miles west of here, and after covering the agent, William Scherborder, with their pistols, went through the safe and took about $300. After compelling him to give up his watch and money they left.

She Followed Her Child.

RAHWAY, N. J., Dec. 20.—Mrs. De Vries, who while intoxicated wandered through the woods with her 5-year-old daughter recently, and was subsequently found lying beneath a tree with her limbs badly frozen, and the dead body of her child lying beside her, has died.

OVERWHELMING DEFEAT

Parnellites Beaten by a Vote of Almost Two to One.

THE PRIESTLY INFLUENCE.

That, It Is Admitted on All Sides, Is What Literally Swept Parnell Out of Kilkenny—The Vote Stood: Hennessy, 2,527; Scully, 1,356.

KILKENNY, Dec. 24.—The election held yesterday to fill the seat in the house of commons made vacant by the death of Mr. Marum, member for North Kilkenny, has resulted in the return of Sir John Pope Hennessy, the anti-Parnellite candidate, by an overwhelming majority, the vote standing almost two to one against Mr. Vincent Scully. The complete returns give the figures as follows: Sir John Hennessy (anti-Parnellite), 2,527; Mr. Vincent Scully (Parnellite), 1,356.

In view of the almost vital importance to both sides of the exciting political contest just decided, it is claimed that both parties deserve great credit for the fact that no collision took place between their followers, and that the last day of the campaign, at least, was conspicuous for the almost entire absence of the personal abuse which has recently been exchanged by broadsides between the followers and the opponents of Mr. Parnell.

It is admitted on all sides that the priestly besom swept Parnell clean out of Kilkenny, and that, despite the coarseness of its fiber, it has done the work uncommonly well. Every priest in the district acted as an election agent, and could not have labored more energetically had his own bread and butter for the future depended on the success of the anti-Parnellite candidate. The victors are greatly elated, but have thus far taken their triumph quietly. The night will probably tell a different story.

The new Irish member of parliament has an interesting record in connection with legislation for Ireland and for the oppressed generally. He has held six colonial governorships, has written much on public topics, is honorable secretary of the mathematical section of the British Association and chairman of the repression of crimes section of the Social Science congress.

Later—Scully Files a Protest.

KILKENNY, Dec. 24.—Mr. Vincent Scully, the defeated Parnellite candidate for election to the house of commons from North Kilkenny, has filed a petition praying that a certificate of election be not granted to Sir John Pope Hennessy, the successful candidate of the anti-Parnellites.

Mr. Scully's petition is based on the allegation that undue pressure was brought to bear by the priests upon the illiterate voters of the constituency. Especial complaint is made of the action of the clergy in connection with the canvass of Castlecomer, during which Mr. Parnell and his friends are alleged to have been assaulted by a mob led by priests.

The Meeting in Paris.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—Now that the Kilkenny election is over, and the excitement attending that first trial of strength between the Irish factions is dispelled, all are looking forward with the deepest interest to the meeting of Parnell and O'Brien in Paris. O'Brien is acquainted with Mrs. O'Shea, who will also be in Paris, and who may, it is thought, have something to say in behalf of Parnell.

There is no foundation whatever for the report that the Queen's proctor means to reopen the O'Shea divorce case. The only possible ground for such action, in view of the evidence, would be collusion, and it would do Parnell no good to testify to that; while at the same time should such a claim be successfully interposed it would make it impossible for Parnell to marry his "dear Kate," as he habitually calls her, and would leave her in a condition worse than divorce or widowhood.

It is understood that at the coming conference in Paris the question will arise of the disposition of the funds now locked up from the uses of the National league, and an effort will be made to arrive at common ground.

In a statement last evening Sir George Trevelyan, M. P., said that the Liberal party continued steadfast in its attitude toward Ireland; that it was firmly resolved to give a measure of atonement and deliverance to Ireland as a nation, "not because they are Liberals, but because we are Liberals."

Gen. Collins to Retire from Politics.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—Gen. P. A. Collins states that his resignation of the chairmanship of the Democratic state committee means his permanent retirement from politics. He says: "The only reason for my leaving the office is my desire to get out of politics, and this I propose to do. Had I wished to keep in politics I would have retained my seat in congress. For several years I have been endeavoring to attend to both politics and law, but found by experience that it was not a course that could be followed with profit. Henceforth I am to be a lawyer, not a politician."

A WOMAN ON THE SCAFFOLD.

Hanged for the Murder of Mrs. Hogg and Her Infant Child.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—Mary Eleanor Wheeler, alias Mrs. Pearcey, was hanged Tuesday morning for the murder of Mrs. Phebe Hogg and her infant child. Notwithstanding the report of the noted alienist, Dr. Forbes Winslow, to the effect that the woman was subject to epileptic fits, and might have killed Mrs. Hogg while in that condition, Home Secretary Matthews decided not to interfere with the course of justice, on the ground that the crime bore conclusive evidence of deliberation, and, as to the death of the child at least, also of premeditation.

During the past few days Mrs. Pearcey frequently threw herself on the bed and sobbed convulsively. But she made no confession until Tuesday morning. She got up early and prayed for some hours. To the chaplain she acknowledged that the sentence was just, at the same time asserting that much of the evidence was false. She never mentioned Hogg, and gave the impression that she alone was guilty of the murders. The hanging passed off without incident, the unhappy woman dying almost instantly. She will be buried in the jail yard.

The crime was committed in October. Mrs. Pearcey and Frank Hogg had been friendly before Hogg's marriage, and were intimate after it. Mrs. Pearcey was madly in love with Hogg, and maintained an appearance of friendship with Mrs. Hogg, who knew nothing of the intimacy. Mrs. Pearcey invited Mrs. Hogg to visit her one afternoon and bring the baby, then 18 months old. According to Mrs. Pearcey's partial confession, Mrs. Hogg came, and they had some words.

After braining Mrs. Hogg with a poker and cutting her throat Mrs. Pearcey suffocated the child. Then under cover of darkness she conveyed the body of Mrs. Hogg about a mile in the baby carriage and left it on the roadside. The body of the child she deposited in a field. The police suspected her from her actions when she went with Clara Hogg, the murdered woman's sister-in-law, to identify the body of Mrs. Hogg. Search of her house revealed the evidence of murder. The husband, Frank Hogg, was for some time under surveillance and narrowly escaped lynching. The authorities became satisfied, however, that he was ignorant of the murder.

The Big Strike in Scotland.

EDINBURGH, Dec. 24.—The great railroad strike has extended to this city, and is constantly assuming more formidable proportions. Freight traffic in this part of the country is entirely suspended, and it is believed that within a few hours the engine fires of all passenger trains will be banked. Some have already failed to make their usual trips, and others are being moved very irregularly, notwithstanding the assertions of the managers that they were prepared for just such an emergency. The employes are orderly, but determined and vigilant. The system of picketing which they put in operation here gives evidence of the existence of careful forethought and perfect organization. Much apprehension is felt by manufacturers lest sympathetic strikes and the compulsory shutting down of numerous establishments for lack of fuel still further complicates a situation already serious.

Attacked Everything French.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—United Press dispatches announcing trouble in Madagascar over the French protectorate are confirmed. On the 6th of November the Hovas rose in a mob at the capital Tananarivo and attacked everything French. They first pillaged the dwellings of the French missionaries, wounding Father Monteret when he endeavored to resist them. Then they attacked the house of the French vice president; also the French financial agency and other buildings connected with the foreign residents. The assailants were, in some instances, beaten back. No attacks were made upon any but the French.

Ingalls' Prospects Darkening.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 24.—Senator Ingalls' prospects for defeat seem to increase daily. Senator Rush said yesterday that Ingalls would not be re-elected, and that he would lose 6 Republican votes in the senate, leaving him 32 senators and 25 members of the house. It requires 33 votes to elect. Rush, who is a leading Republican, declares he can never get them. "A Republican can be elected senator," he said, "but to do it Ingalls must step down and out at once. If he don't he will wreck the Republican party of Kansas."

Life for Life.

WINCHESTER, Ky., Dec. 24.—Noah Crooks, a railroader, and Moses Mack, a storekeeper, quarreled here. Crooks shot Mack in the head, killing him, and then jumped on a train at the depot and fled. At Colby station Sheriff Shackelford was waiting for him, and when the train stopped called on him to surrender. Crooks pulled his gun and fired, the ball striking Shackelford in the leg. Shackelford as he fell fired back, the bullet striking Crooks in the stomach, producing a wound from which he died.

They Mean Business.

PARIS, Dec. 24.—M. Dumay, a member of the chamber of deputies, is to have a duel with M. Brousse, vice chancellor of the municipal council of Paris. They quarreled yesterday in the lobby of the Hotel de Ville, and M. Brousse struck the deputy a blow in the face. The latter sent a challenge, which was accepted, and they will first shoot with pistols at twenty-five paces; then, if nobody is hurt, they will fight with swords.

Robbed While Visiting Saloons.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Charles Slates reported to the police Tuesday morning that he had been robbed during the night of $2,500 while visiting some of the saloons of the city. He says he is a cigar manufacturer and resides at West Superior, Wis. He received the money from parties in the state. His father-in-law, George Hull, of Binghamton, paid him $1,900 yesterday. Several arrests of saloon keepers have been made.

Burned to Death in His Shop.

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—Charles F. Foley, aged 50, was burned to death in his carpenter shop last night. He was presumably asleep at the time, as it was his custom to sleep there. The fire is supposed to have originated from an overheated stove. The fire spread to a painter's place on the same floor. The police made an effort to rescue Foley, but were driven back by the flames and smoke. Before the fire was extinguished the firemen found Foley's charred and lifeless remains. The property loss was about $1,000.

CALLED THEM COWARDS.

Bad Lands Indians Say the Soldiers Are Afraid to Fight.

STILL INTENSELY HOSTILE.

The Redskins Remain Defiant and Are Ready for Battle—They Will Probably Be Accommodated, as a Fight Is Hourly Expected.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Dec. 24.—An Indian scout named Stands First, who has just returned from a visit to the Indian camp in Bad Lands, says the spirit of intense hostility still prevails there. All of his efforts to induce them to come in were answered with jeers and war cries. The Indians said they had been ready to meet the soldiers for a month, but the latter were cowards and afraid to come out and fight.

A Fight on the Tapis.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Dec. 24.—Reports of a fight with the Indians north of here are momentarily expected. A large command left here in charge of Col. Sumner to intercept a band of Indians making for the Bad Lands. A scout who was sent by Carr returned, and reports that Sumner, having heard that Hump's band, on Cherry creek, were reported as preparing to join the hostiles in the Bad Lands, also most of Big Foot's band, sent a party of soldiers to intercept them on their arrival in Hump's camp. They were repulsed, a number of shots being fired, but no one was seriously hurt. They returned to Col. Sumner, who sent two troops of cavalry to the scene. No reports from them have been received.

The report is that there are about three thousand Indians, including women and children, who are badly armed, coming on to join those in the Bad Lands. There are about six hundred fighting men among them. This report is thought to be somewhat exaggerated, as there are thought to be not over three hundred fighting men.

Shot Down by Cowboys.

Yesterday some ten cowboys went down near Battle creek draw, where there are a number of hostiles encamped on the reservation. They concealed themselves on Bear creek, and had not waited long until eight Indians rode slowly up the draw and dismounted and unsaddled. The cowboys slowly crept up on the bluff, and poured a volley of lead into them, one Indian dropping dead. The others were so frightened that they fled for their lives, the cowboys shooting until they were out of range.

The cowboys captured seven fine saddles and three good Indian ponies. This morning Mr. McCormack came in and reported that during the night, while he was away from his ranch, Indians shot the windows out. They cut all his grain sacks and scattered the grain all over the ground and destroyed the furniture. The great hindrance to their capture is that after their thefts and destroying the property they return to their reservation, where the troops cannot follow, there being strict orders against it.

The Alleged Messiah.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 24.—A. I. Chapman, a well known Indian scout, has just returned here from Nevada, where he went in November for the purpose of interviewing the so-called Messiah, in obedience to orders from Gen. Gibbon. He first went to Walker's lake, in Nevada, and talked with the Piutes, who told him the Messiah had been receiving calls from all the tribes in the west. Chapman found the Messiah at West Fork, on Walker river, in Nevada. Speaking of his interview Chapman said:

"The Messiah 'Quoetize Ow,' as he gives his name, is a full blooded Piute Indian, and has always been peacefully disposed. He spoke freely of his call to preach. His first experience with the Almighty was one afternoon while hunting. Hearing a noise he started to learn what it was, when he was thrown to the ground from some unknown cause. He was then taken to heaven, and there saw all the whites and Indians that had lived and died on earth. He was afterward brought back to earth, to the same spot where he had fallen dead.

What God Told Him.

"God told him he had been looking for a mortal whom he could intrust with a mission to reform the world and had decided on 'Quoetize Ow.' Having been informed of his mission, he set out to perform it. He taught the Indians that they should work and avoid fighting, except in self defense. Last summer the Indians told him that unless it rained soon the crops would fail. He told them to go home, and in three days an abundance of rain fell. Quoetize got his ideas from a religious family with whom he had lived."

Chapman thinks Quoetize only indirectly to blame for the Indian uprising, and that the doctrine imbued the Indians with more independent spirit to resist their wrongs.

This Messiah Is a Crank.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Dec. 24.—The police have arrested the Messiah down in Red Cloud's camp. When they pulled the white blanket off they found an intelligent but harmless crank, M. C. Hopkins by name, from Nashua, Ia. He claimed he was here in the interest of peace, and that he had come because the Indians misinterpreted his message.

He wanted to go to the Bad Lands, but Agent Royer changed his address to Chadrin, starting him under an escort of police. Some of the Indians were indignant over his arrest, while others laughed and said he was a crazy fool. None of the chiefs takes any stock in him, and Red Cloud walked up to him and said: "You go home. You are no son of God." The Messiah claims that he will go to the Bad Lands.

Held Up the Trainmen.

ILNEY, Ills., Dec. 23.—Yesterday morning at 3 o'clock, while a Peoria, Decatur and Evansville freight train was taking water at a station two miles south of here, two masked men armed with revolvers boarded the caboose and demanded money from the occupants. The only persons in the car were a conductor named Hampton and a brakeman named Hall. From Hampton $47 and a gold watch were secured and $15 and a silver watch from Hall. The thieves disappeared in the adjoining woods. When the train arrived in this city officers were sent out after the robbers, but no clew was obtained.

THE SAWTELLE MURDER TRIAL.

After Introducing Medical Testimony the Prosecution Rests Its Case.

DOVER, N. H., Dec. 24.—In the Sawtelle murder trial Tuesday morning Jedediah Morrill gave testimony about the wagon tracks near his barn, supposed to have been made by Sawtelle's team. William Chamberlain told of the finding of the pickaxe handle, and then Mrs. Sawtelle, recalled, identified her husband's shoes.

Dr. John R. Ham was next called, and gave in detail the result of his examination of the body. The manner of chopping off the head and arms with the hatchet, the course of the bullets and the distinctive marks on the feet and hands by which the body was identified were described by the doctor. There would be no difficulty, according to the doctor, in carrying the body in such a buggy as had been described in the evidence. In the matter of the fatal pistol shots the rule would be that bleeding from such wounds would be slight at the time and none afterward. The wound through the heart might cause two quarts of blood in the chest.

Dr. M. B. Sullivan, who was at the examination, testified to about the same effect.

After some further testimony as to the course of the bullets and in affirmation that the hatchet shown in evidence would cut off the head and arms as they were severed, the prosecution rested its case, reserving the right to call another witness.

HENRY B. BROWN NAMED.

Nominated by the President for the Vacant Supreme Court Judgeship.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—The president sent to the senate today the following nominations: Henry B. Brown, of Michigan, to be associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, vice Samuel F. Miller, deceased.

Henry Billings Brown was born in Lee, Mass., March 2, 1836. He was graduated at Yale in 1856, studied law and after a few years' practice was appointed assistant United States district attorney, in which office he served from 1863 till 1868. In the latter year he became circuit judge for Wayne county, Mich., and in 1875 he became United States district judge. He has traveled extensively in Europe, and has compiled a volume of "Admiralty Reports."

Col. Charles Sutherland, surgeon, to be surgeon general with the rank of brigadier general, vice J. H. Baxter, deceased. Maj. Lewis Merrill, United States army, retired, to be lieutenant colonel of cavalry, under authority of act of congress approved Sept. 27, 1890.

The Financial Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—The financial bill reported to the senate today by Mr. Sherman is a modification of the measure agreed to by the Republican caucus. The fourth section of the caucus bill, which provided that the deficiency in the national bank circulation should be made good by the issue of treasury notes, is struck out and in its place is inserted the Sherman 2 per cent. bond proposition, modified so as to require the issue of $300,000,000 in bonds instead of $100,000,000, to be redeemable at pleasure after ten years.

House Committee Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—The house agreed that when it adjourns it be until Friday. The speaker made the following committee appointments:

Ways and means, Breckinridge of Arkansas; commerce, Dickerson of Kentucky; postoffice and post roads, Roland of North Carolina; education, Langston of Virginia; labor, Miller of South Carolina; expenditures in postoffice department, Pindar of New York; banking and currency, E. S. Hays of Iowa; naval affairs, McKenna of California, Stone of Pennsylvania and Magner of New York; public lands, Wright of Pennsylvania; agriculture, McDuffie of Alabama; expenditure in treasury department, McDuffie of Alabama; reform in the civil service, Whitelaw of Missouri.

The house then adjourned till Friday.

Business Troubles.

MEDIA, Pa., Dec. 24.—Samuel J. Lewis & Son, extensive manufacturers, of Clifton, have had judgments for $49,300 entered against them, and on one of these, in favor of Moses Brown Sons & Co. for $31,500, an execution has been issued. What the outcome of the proceedings will be is yet uncertain, but at present it is understood arrangements have been made to work up material on hand.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 24.—L. F. & C. L. Neil, cigar jobbers, have called a meeting of creditors for Wednesday, at which they will offer to compromise for 33 1-3 per cent. Liabilities, about $8,000; assets, $3,000.

Death Stopped the Festivities.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 24.—The fair and Christmas festival of the First separate company Rhode Island militia (colored) was broken up last night by a fatal accident in the rifle range which formed a feature of the affair. While John W. Downey, aged 19, was loading a Flobert rifle the weapon was accidentally discharged, and the ball penetrated the left eye into the brain of Frank Atkinson, aged 17, causing instant death. An inquest will be held.

Our Rights in the Congo State.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 24.—It has been formally agreed by the Congo Technical commission that America shall have the same rights as other powers in the Congo state, although the Berlin act was not ratified by the United States government.

Sixty Horses Perish.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Dec. 24.—The East End street car stables were burned and sixty head of horses perished in the flames. Cars, with harness and a large amount of hay and grain, will bring the loss up to about $20,000.

Romance and Tragedy.

ASHLAND, Wis., Dec. 23.—P. J. Morarty, a bartender, went across the bay with a pretty young girl named Nelson, not yet 15 years of age, and the couple were married. They had only been acquainted a few days. At night a woman, who claimed to be Morarty's wife, called upon the couple and made threats. She claimed that Morarty had other wives. There was another storm when the girl's parents learned of her marriage. Morarty slipped out of the back window, went to a drug store, took laudanum and will die.

A Bold Robbery.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 23.—On Saturday night at the Union depot a bold robber snatched a handbag containing jewelry, valuable documents and negotiable papers, worth in all $1,600, from Theodore Millenmaster, the agent of a Chicago music company, and escaped with his booty.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE

For the coming year will be noteworthy for a number of special features which the Publishers believe are of very unusual interest, and among them may be mentioned:—

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD

contributes to the December number the first of a series of four Articles upon Japan, its people, its ways, and its thoughts. Mr. Robert Blum, who was commissioned to go to Japan for Scribner's Magazine, has prepared a very remarkable series of drawings to illustrate Sir Edwin's papers. Articles upon the recent Japanese Festival will follow, illustrated by Mr Blum.

HENRY M. STANLEY

has prepared for the January number an important article upon "The Pigmies of the Great African Forest." Another contribution in this field will be Mr. J. Scott Keltie's account of the recent African Exhibition held in London. Both papers will be amply illustrated.

THE WRECKER,

a Serial Novel by Robert Louis Stevenson and Lloyd Osborne will run through a large part of the year. Illustrated by Hole. A two part story by Frank R. Stockton will also appear.

PROF. JAMES BRYCE, M. P.,

author of "The American Commonwealth" will write a series of Four Articles upon India embodying the results of his recent journeys and studies on this land of never-dying interest.

OCEAN STEAMSHIPS

will be the subject of an important series somewhat upon the lines of the successful railroad articles. "Passenger Travel," "The Life of Officers and Men," "Speed and Safety Devices," and "Management," are some of the subjects touched upon and illustrated.

GREAT STREETS OF THE WORLD

is the title of a novel collection of articles on which the author and artist will collaborate to give the characteristics of famous thoroughfares. The first, on Broadway, will be written by Richard Harding Davis and illustrated by Arthur B. Frost. Others will follow on Piccadilly, London; Boulevard, Paris; The Corso, Rome.

The price of Scribner's Magazine admits of adding a subscription to one's other reading at very small cost. Orders should be sent at once. $3.00 a year. 25 cents a number

THE END OF THE SCARE.

Col. Corbin Thinks That We Are Very Close to It Now.

THE BAD LANDS HOSTILES.

They Ask Gen. Brooke for the Earth as a Christmas Present — Joe Howard's Daughter Tells of the Woes of Lo, the Poor Indian.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—"The end of our big Indian scare is very near now, I think," said Col. Corbin last evening. "When Two Strike came in with 600 teepees it left only about 700 hostiles all told, and Gen. Miles now has these surrounded and will bring matters to an issue Tuesday. I think the Indians will probably surrender peacefully. From the first Gen. Miles intended to run no risk in this campaign. Previous experience was dearly bought. Without firing a shot Gen. Miles has reduced the number of hostiles to 700. If the Indians pursue a wise course they will come in and submit to being disarmed. If they don't do that I feel sure it is all up with them."

They Want the Earth.

PINE RIDGE, S. D., Dec. 23.—Slow Bull came in yesterday to ask Gen. Brooke to give the Bad Lands braves the earth as a Christmas present. No arrests, no punishments, no taking of guns, heap more rations, forgiveness and love are a few things on his list. What Gen. Brooke said is not known, but from what was said Saturday by Gen. Miles no government officer or other official can make any promises with the assurance that the government will carry them out. To bring in these Indians under the pledges that they ask, and then to attempt to arrest or disarm them, would precipitate a massacre at Pine Ridge.

By telegraph it is learned at Rapid City that Col. Staunton found some of the Sitting Bull fugitives and some Cherry Creek Indians crossing the Bad Lands toward Kicking Bear's camp. Staunton chased them into the Bad Lands, near White river, opposite the mouth of Wounded Knee creek. No soldiers were hurt and probably no Indians.

Grace Howard Interviewed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Miss Grace Howard, daughter of Joe Howard, the well known newspaper man, has just returned to New York from Crow Creek, Dak. She says that the Indian troubles cannot fail to be settled very soon. The principal obstacle in the way of an immediate settlement lies in the lower white element, with whom is the responsibility of the whole disturbance to an extent not generally known in the east. These people welcome troops in the country for the reason that it puts money in circulation.

Miss Howard has come east on her annual vacation of three months. Her school is situated about a hundred miles from the hostile region, being half way between Pine Ridge and Standing Rock. Among the 2,300 Indians on the reservation there was only one man who ever contemplated joining the dance. White Ghost, the chief, recently wrote a very dignified letter to the department promising a continuance of the peaceful attitude of his tribe, and giving as his opinion, "if the community, pale faces and Indians alike, would join in a prayer for rain rather than for arms it would be well."

The Government's Policy Condemned.

Miss Howard condems the government policy of cutting down rations without giving some equivalent in the way of horses, cattle or agricultural implements. The crops have been so poor this year and times so hard throughout the entire west that even the white farmers have had all they could do to make a living. Among the Indians, with their inferior advantages, the greatest distress prevails.

The census, she believes, was taken with perfect fairness. Rations were issued for 7,000, while the number of Indians is nearer 5,000. But the rations are very small. Less than a handful of coffee or sugar is issued to each person weekly. Clothes, blankets, etc., have been very late in coming this year. Cold weather has set, in and the people have not received their winter supplies. This very poverty stands in the way of continued hostilities. The Indians may possibly establish themselves in the Bad Lands and make a short fight, but long resistance is out of the question.

Miss Howard's School.

Of her school and mission work Miss Howard has a great many interesting things to say. The children are very bright, and far more industrious than their white brothers and sisters. They are quick at their lessons, and out of school hours almost always occupied with doll dressmaking or something of the kind. The boys are good mechanics and hard workers. Miss Howard has brought her adopted child, Mamie, to New York with her. Mamie is a fat, good natured, very bashful little girl of 12. This is her first visit to the metropolis, and she is seemingly much impressed.

The Indian is more and more civilized every year, as the ability to shift for himself increases. He is a pretty good farmer, as far as his limited opportunities allow. The Indian pony does not take kindly to farm work, and better horses should be supplied by the government. The women are good housekeepers and very devoted to church work. They have their sewing societies, where it is safe to suppose they talk small scandal as enthusiastically as in more cultured regions.

Miss Howard's school, at first a private mission, is now an industrial institution, with an extra teacher supplied by the government. It is about thirteen miles from the agency, and the only white people on the place are Miss Howard and her assistant.

Concerning the killing of Sitting Bull, Miss Howard says that, while she cannot help admiring the old warrior's bravery, his death can result in nothing but good. She speaks in highest praise of the Indian police, and hopes that their families will be provided for by the government.

McGonegal's Colleague Set Free.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Mrs. Fanny D. Shaw, who was indicted with Dr. McGonegal and Augustus D. Harrison for complicity in the death of Annie Goodwin, the cigarette girl, in July last, has been set at liberty, the indictment against her having been dismissed.

THE CONTEST IN KILKENNY.

It Is Progressing Quietly and Apparently in Favor of Hennessy.

KILKENNY, Dec. 23.—The election to fill the vacancy in the house of commons, created by the death of E. P. Mulhallen Marum, late member for North Kilkenny, progresses quietly. In this city the polling opened briskly, and has so far progressed in an orderly manner, although considerable jeering and chaffing are being indulged in by the partisans of Sir John Pope Hennessy and Mr. Vincent Scully, his Parnellite opponent.

The police force on duty is a large one, and is assisted by a draft of fifty soldiers from the garrison, which has been furnished in response to a request from the mayor.

Mr. Healy, believing the keystone of the fight to be at Castle Comer, has gone to that place, where he will closely watch the poll in the anti-Parnellite interest.

KILKENNY, Dec. 23.—On arriving at Castle Comer Mr. Healy found that he was not alone in the belief that there was the key to the constituency. He was met by strong and enthusiastic Parnellite and anti-Parnellite contingents.

The indications are that a majority of the voters are opposed to the candidacy of Mr. Vincent Scully, Mr. Parnell's candidate.

Considerable excitement was caused during the morning by the circulation of a rumor to the effect that a large number of miners had been confined in a coal pit to prevent their reaching the polls and depositing their ballots. Investigation showed the report to be a canard.

Parnell's Effective Work.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Conservative newspapers praise Mr. Parnell's final day's electioneering as the most effective of the campaign. They betray the utmost anxiety for the result of the election, and evidently believe that today is big with significance for the Tory party.

The Liberals are also taking a deep interest in the news from Kilkenny, but express confidence of the success of Hennessy.

Sixty ladies of Cork have signed an address for presentation to Mr. Parnell condemning his course and asking, in the name of Ireland's reputation for purity, that he retire from active public life.

The Closing Bulletin.

DUBLIN, Dec. 23.—The Freeman's Journal issued Monday the closing bulletin of the campaign. It is comparatively mild in tone, and avoids personal abuse of the anti-Parnellites.

The paper says that if the Kilkenny electors should return Sir John Pope Hennessy they will be playing the game laid out for them by the Rev. Hugh Price, by Stead, of The Pall Mall Gazette, and the crowd of Pharisees.

The election of Vincent Scully is the only chance of winning the goal of every patriotic Irishman—genuine home rule for Ireland—and would also teach the clergy to use their authority within just and legitimate bounds.

No one but Parnell has the ability, the paper adds, to control certain elements of the Irish agitation, in which clerical dictation, as at present exercised, is deeply resented.

An Unfortunate Carriage Ride.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—Jennie and Lillian Allen, sisters, who reside in Toledo, O., met with serious injuries in a runaway accident here. Both girls have been stopping at the St. Cloud hotel. They hired a carriage and started out to make some calls. At the corner of Archer avenue and Clark street the team became frightened by a passing train and dashed with terrific speed toward State street. The girls, realizing that nothing could check the course of the runaways, opened the door of the carriage and attempted to escape a probable death by jumping. Jennie was thrown violently to the pavement and sustained a compound fracture of the left leg and slight internal injuries. Her sister fell on her head and received a fracture of the skull which will probably prove fatal. She also received internal injuries. Both girls were removed to St. Luke's hospital, where at a late hour but little hopes were entertained of Lillian's recovery.

Perilous Sleep Walking.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 23.—Policeman David Smith, of the south side, saw a young girl standing in her night clothes in the freezing air at the corner of Fifteenth and Carson streets Sunday morning. She turned out to be Louise Liebendorfer, aged 19, a sleep walker. As Smith spoke to her two men, Max Reisenstein and a friend, came rushing down the Knoxville incline plane steps, and caught the girl just as she was falling to the street. Reisenstein and his friend had seen the girl get on the Knoxville incline and walk down the icy ties to Carson street, a sheer 1,000 feet of almost perpendicular height. They had followed by the roundabout steps, but she was ahead of them five minutes. Louisa's mother declares that she swam the Kanawha river in West Virginia three times one winter night while asleep. She is in bed suffering from exposure.

Relieving Starving Ireland.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The steamer Magnet, loaded with meal, potatoes and other government stores, has sailed from Portsmouth for Galway. On arriving at the latter port the steamer's cargo will be unloaded, and the provisions hurried forward to the various famine stricken districts of western Ireland. The government has ordered that the steamers Seashore, Britomarte and Grappler, which have been engaged in work similar to that now being performed by the Magnet, be for three months longer continued in the service for the transportation to Ireland of food supplies.

Fell In and Broke His Neck.

WAVERLY, Ia., Dec. 23.—Pat Boyson, a wealthy farmer of this county, met his death in a peculiar manner. He spent the day in town and walked home at night. He was seen near his house, and as he did not enter it a search was made, and he was found dead in a wagon box that lay on the ground. It was quite dark at the time, and it is supposed that Boyson did not see the box and walked up against it, falling in and breaking his neck.

The Platform Collapsed.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 23.—During a public rehearsal of the "Messiah" yesterday at the Washington park, by the Dosenboch's orchestra, a platform on which were seated about 125 of the performers gave way, letting over 100 people down. Several were somewhat cut and bruised, one lady fainting and another becoming delirious from fear that her daughter was killed. Otherwise no great damage was done.

This is not merely a blow to make money, but it is an actual bonafide reduction of all Men's wearing apparel to wholesale cut prices for the purpose of making some radical changes in our stock and to commence business on January 1st or thereabouts with an entire different line of goods.

Remember that our entire stock is nearly all goods purchased this season. In our dry goods and dress goods lines we have the most complete stock in the county.

Amusement Notes.

Garman's opera house was well filled on Thursday night to witness 'Yankee Moore" in "Old Jonathan Coburg," nee "Our Jonathan." The play is an old one and has been given in Bellefonte several times. There is nothing especially great about it but there was enough to keep the audience in a good humor.

A fair audience gathered in the court house to hear and see Prof. Hammers in his illustrated lecture on 'From Paris to Pompeii." This was very interesting and much enjoyed by those present.

REDPATH CONCERT COMPANY.

On Tuesday evening, December 30th, the Redpath Concert Company will appear in the court house under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. This company is composed of five persons,each anartist and master of the profession. You won't dare miss this musical treat.

Specimen Cases.

S.H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, his Stomach was disordered, his Liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large Fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. one bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by W. C. Keplinger and Co's Drug Store.

Farmers' Institute.

The State Board of Agriculture, as has been their yearly custom, has appointed the regulation two farmers' institutes to be held in Centre county this year. The first will be held at Howard on Friday and Saturday, January 16 and 17th ; the second will be held at Pine Grove Mills on Monday and Tuesday, January 19th and 20th. All the sessions of the institute are free and ladies are cordially invited to attend. Questions of vital importance to the home and the farm will be discussed by learned men.

At this season of the year when malaria lurks in the air, and bad colds not an unfrequent visitor, we long for a quick and effective remedy. There is scarcely a home without a sufferer from some of the many ills the flesh is heir to. A stimulant is after the intermediate. It is quick and effective. It brings relief and saves doctors bills. We can reccommend Mr. Max Klein for anything in the liquor line. His silver age Rye at $1.50 per quart is the best whiskey in the market. He will sell a y Pennsylvania Rye Whiskey, six years old, at 1.00 for each quart, or six for $5 00. Send for his price list and catalogue and mention this paper Address MAX KLEIN,
82 Federal st., Allegheny, Pa.

The Cleary Trial.

As the date for the commencement of the January term of court approaches there is considerable talk about the new trial which Charles Cleary will have, and there is much speculation as to the result of the trial. It is understood that Messrs, McCormick & Kress are to be the prisoners' counsel. District attorney Aaron W. Brumgard is likely to be alone in the prosecution. County Commissioner Grugan stated this morning that so far as he was concerned the county would employ no attorney to assist Mr. Brumgard, and he believed that he spoke the sentiments of the other Commissioners.

A Glance at the Past and a Vision of the Future.

As we scan the pages of history, and the endless, ever changing panorama of life in by-gone ages passes in review before our mind's eye, we see civilizations rise and spread under the competitive system until they have conquered the world; and we naturally enquire why they ended as they did. But when we consider the fact that a nation and a civilization are but the growth of an idea, the whole or partial realization of a dream, we are then enabled to view the subject in a new light. We find that the only idea the ancients had of power was physical strength; and that their very ideal of power was but the empty shell,—pomp, pageantry, and vain glory. Thus we see that, when they had attained the height of their ambition, when their dream of power was ended, lacking the intelligence to form a higher type of society, they continued their competitive system, turning upon and devouring each other, just as they had devoured the world, until their whole social scheme dissolved and vanished like the mists of morn before the rising sun.

In this boasted civilization of the nineteenth century of the Christian era we have risen a notch in the scale of intelligence, and have a higher ideal of life. We now understand and realize the value of mental power. Hence, this is called the age of theories, of inventions. We have better theories of government, and consequently better governments; and it is the dreamy hope of something still better that is buoying us up, and ever leading us on. But when a new theory is advanced or an invention proposed, there is a great cry on every hand that it is utterly impracticable and can never be carried out. In the ardor of their own convictions, these narrow minded egotists entirely forget that every fact of to-day has been in the past but an idle dream. After Sir Isaac Newton had spent years testing his theory, and had proved that he was right, many of the most eminent scientists of the day refused to accept it. Thus we see the wheels of progress clogged and retarded at every turn by those who fondly imagine they are practical. The wildest dreamer that ever lived never, in his most ecstatic and dreamiest of moods, imagined anything half so ridiculous as those who think they can lay down a line beyond which the human intellect cannot go. The impossibilities of yesterday are the possibilities of to-day. When we hear these people talk, we are forcibly reminded of the time when Galileo was placed in prison and loaded with chains because he told them that their idol of immaculate purity was covered with spots. But when the telescope had proved that sun-spots were not myths, and when the heavens had been mapped and each star assigned its particular place, these people again dropped back into the old rut and said that science had reached the end of its tether and had nothing more to discover. But the spectroscope appeared on the scene, letting daylight through their pet hobby again. With it the most distant stars can be analyzed just as certainly as geologists can analyze the different strata of the earth. It is true that many substances have been discovered that are unknown here, but only a few years ago two metals were discovered in the sun that are known to exist here. Photographic plates have been made so sensitive that systems of stars have been photographed in parts of the heavens where the eye aided with the most powerful telescopes can see nothing but patches of light. With all these facts, and thousands of others that might be accumulated, how can anyone imagine he knows what can and what cannot be done?

A great many theories have been utterly groundless and contained very few kernels of truth; but, instead of laughing at and discouraging the dreamers, why not encourage them? Let them hold up their theories before the eyes of the world. If they have any weak spots, these will be merely the windows through which the light of truth will surely shine. Cast their theories into the mill of public opinion, extract and save the kernels of truth, but throw the chaff to the winds. Out of all this chaos of conflicting ideas and beliefs will come peace and order. The darkest hour is just before the dawn.

An old saying has been handed down to us from our ancestors, that there always have been hewers of wood and drawers of water, and that there always will be. That there always have been is a fact, but I shall have to take exceptions to the latter. There was a time when man tilled the soil with the rudest kind of a wooden plough and the worst apology for a team to draw it. Now ploughing is done with the most improved steel ploughs propelled by steam, and when the grain ripens another machine cuts, threshes, and puts it into bags ready to be drawn away. If the rudest kind of labor can be brought down to such perfection as this, what cannot be done in the mechanical world? We can go into almost any factory and see boys and girls, with the aid of machinery, doing work that formerly required the most skilled mechanics. With all our modern improvements, can anyone for a single instant imagine that the onward march of progress will stop here? New inventions are being made every day, and we ought by this time to have conclusive evidence that all labor is purely mechanical, and not only can but ultimately will be done by purely mechanical means. And for anyone to say that our competitive system will exist as long as the human race is far more ridiculous than it would be to say that we are going to give up all our improvements and go back to the primitive methods and customs of our ancestors. For in that not distant day in the future, when all labor will be performed by machinery, how will it be possible for one class of society to earn its livelihood by laboring for any other class?

"Westward the star of empire wends its way." But in the Americas it has completed the circle and can go no farther. There are no more vast continents to discover people; and our present civilization is spreading and growing until she will soon have reached the zenith of her power. And since we know that life is a process of evolution, that when a thing has grown to maturity and accomplished its object it dies, we can readily see that when our country is thickly settled with inhabitants, as it soon will be, and the competitive system shall have fulfilled its purpose, something higher must be evolved or ruin will result.

Our "ship of state" is fast nearing the shoals upon which past civilizations have stranded, and, unless we put hard down the helm and steer clear of danger, history will again repeat itself, and the dark, thick, gloomy pall of ignorance and superstition will once more enshroud our globe. "Shall we, like the wretch who has seen the folly of a thousand errors, still continue to blunder?" No. We have reached a higher state of intelligence than any past civilization ever attained, and we are now prepared for that higher life which has hitherto been denied us. Equality, nationalism, and the brotherhood of man—in a word, that which some call the millennium—is absolutely inevitable.

A Series of Winter Tours to Florida via Pennsylvania Railroad.

Last year many of the people fled from the intolerable humidity of the Northern climate to that of the south, where uniformity of temperature and bright sunlight together put a new phase on life. This winter the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in pursuance of a policy inaugurated several years ago, and with many additional incidental improvements, has arranged a series of five tours to be run from New York to Jacksonville, as follows: January 20th, February 3d and 17th, March 3d and 17. Tourists will travel in Pullman Palace cars in charge of a Tourist Agent and Chaperon. A limit must necessarily be made in order to allow each passenger a double berth, and this limit has been made one hundred and fifty.

The round-trip rate, including Pullman accommodations and meals en route in dining car attached to the train, is $50.00 from New York, $48.00 from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. Tickets will be sold from all principal stations on the Pennsylvania Railroad system to a connecting point with the special. For detailed information application should be made to ticket offices.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease 'Consumption," is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing and may prove a blessing, will please address REV. EDWARD A. WILTON, Williamsburg Kings County, New York.

Have Them Removed.

Whose duty is it to keep the streets and pavements in a proper condition? Whosoever it is they should give it proper attention. There is nothing more unsightly than to see a lot of banners and streamers stretched across the pavement and hanging so low as to almost knock a tall man's hat off. Such things are not allowed in other towns and they should not be in Bellefonte. Let the ordinance to keep the pavements open be enforced.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

The heritage of which every human being is almost as certain as he is of air, sunlight and breath, is Scrofula Humor. Poor diet and insufficient food, ill ventilation, filth, and dampness, all assist the slumbering germs of Scrofula to overpower the vitality of the body and run riot in the system. The blood in the process of renewing itself cannot expel any impurities or impurity. It can only be removed by the action of some purifying medicinal agency, which assisted by nutritious food, well digested and assimilated into blood, gradually insures the possession of sound health. Such a renovating remedy has Brown's Sarsaparilla proved itself to be.

—The large fall of snow did some damage to Milesburg churches. On the Methodist church the large body of snow loosened on the roof and started a slide. In going down it took both flues along as if they were but a pipe stem At the Presbyterian church the rear sheds were broken down from the weight of the snow. A resident of that town now says there is a good prospect of two more festivals being held.

—The resolution passed by the School directors on Thursday about the teachers running around town was not complete, It should have contained a clause that would positively forbid teachers from congregating in the back part of the court house during a session of institute and there flirt with the young men and have a good time generally. This kind of conduct was carried to extremes during the week.

WITH THE TEACHERS.

What Was Done at Teacher's Institute on Wednesday.

Institute was called to order promptly at 9 o'clock by Supt. David G. Etters Rev. J, O.Davis,of the Episcopal church, led in prayer. The institute then sang the beautiful old song, "Jesus Lover of My Soul,'which was followed by the roll call and reading and approval of minutes of previous day, after which the Superintendent appointed the following committees :

On Nomination—W. P. Ruhn, E. R. Holmes and G. W. Ward.

On Resolutions—H. C. Rothrock, G. H. Hubbard, J. M. Thomson, Sarah J. Waite and Grace M. Ward.

Ushers appointed for the afternoon session—A. M. Gregg, J. R. Hosterman, Walter Wrye, J. M. Thompson, E. E. Ardery and Jno. M. Beck.

For evening entertainment—K. S. Haines, W. E. Keene, H. L.Gilbert, A.C. Ripka and J. F. Miller.

All the preliminary business now being attended to Mrs. Eastman, of New York, was introduced who gave a good talk on 'Teaching Numbers to Primary Scholars;' also 'How to Read and Write Them, followed by illustrated and practical methods of teaching Addition, Subtraction and Multiplication (work up to forth and fifth grades).

Music ; after which Dr. White gave a very interesting and instructive talk on 'Language Training." Music—'Going to School.' Prof Thompson, of Jersey City next talked on 'Farm Study and drawing,' after which Lloyd Smith, of J. Gilbert & Sons, gave an object lesson on the monufacture of steel pens. Adjournment.

The afternoon session was opened with music—'The Voice Within Us. Roll call. Prof. Wolf spoke regarding the distribution of the Dr. Higbee memorial books and lithograps.

Prof. Buckhout, of State College, gave a short talk on 'Botany,' after which the institute sang 'Auld Lang Syne.' Prof. Thompson then continued his talk on 'Drawing'. At this Stage of the program Col. Sanford, the lecturer for the evening, was introduced and made a cheerful little speech.

Mr. R. A. Beck of Bellefonte was then introduced, and he favored the institute with a bewitching selection on his clarionet. Mrs. Eastman gave a talk on 'Primary Arithmetic,' and then Dr. White closed the afternoon exercises with a short address on'Moral Training.'

In the evening Col. J. P. Sanford, of Marshalltown, Iowa, lectured on 'Old Things and New.' The speaker said many things that was interesting and pleasing, and was generously applauded, but, in reality, his lecture is simply a string of choice selections of historical facts and reminisences of travel woven together with threads of humor that have been chosen more with a view to make laugh than to make wiser. But the teachers were satisfied and that was all that was necessary.

Thursday's Institute.

After the regular opening of the Teachers's Institute on Thursday morning, Prof. Buckhout, of State College, gave a practical talk on "Clover." Mrs. Eastman followed with an interesting argument which she commenced by telling the good of a gymnasium in public schools and closed with a lengthy dissertation on "Primary Geography."

Prof. Thompson then resumed his talk on "Drawing," which lasted until 11 o'clock, a. m., when Prof. Harrison called the roll, after which Dr. White gave another instructive address on "Language." The afternoon was occupied with speeches and addresses by Dr. White and others.

The school directors met in convention at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning in the High School room in the brick building on Bishop street. Owing to the bad condition of the roads there was not as good an attendance as there otherwise would have been. But those directors that were present discussed to advantage some vital questions and prepared a set of studies that they will recommend as suitable for ungraded schools. Resolutions endorsing and recommending the same were drafted and will be given the public in the near future. The convention then passed a lot of general resolutions which are published in the paper.

Institute Notes.

The Teacher's Institute for 1890 has closed, and, taking everything into consideration, it was not a great success. County Superintendent Etters is out of pocket about $60, hence it was not a success financially. D. F. Fortney, Esq., felt called upon to lecture the teachers for their lack of interest and attendance and the teachers say the sessions were too dry and uninteresting for them to give close attention. Be that as it may have appeared to them, it is hardly fair to conclude that this was wholly so. The instructors were able and eloquent. There probably was a mistake in having one man do so much talking. The evening entertainments were as good as the average. But there seems to be a mistake made in a good many teacher's institutes. It is that of having too much theoretical talk and instruction. The learned 'Profs." and "Drs" generally secured for such occasions are chuck full of some pet theory as to certain ways of doing certain things and they take the occasion of the teacher's institute to unload a lot of stuff that is impractical and as much out of the question in the common school room of to-day as it is impossible to back a six horse team up a steep mountain.

For instance, it is all well enough to theorize on the nicety of ruling a school with love and kindness,but a good birch rod is more practical. The man who advocates the above was probably never in his life in a common school house as a teacher. This is only one instance but there are dozens of methods advocated at the annual institute that are just as impracticable as the one of ruling a school with love. If it is desired to make these county institutes interesting to all what better plan could be taken than to have the teachers of the county engage in it. Let them prepare papers to read. Have debates on school questions and have them discuss methods and modes but interesting and practicable. This would give the institute a local interest that would attract the attention of all and prove of advantage to many.

Look Out for Him.

From the Huntingdon Journal :

"The other evening as our reporter was standing at the depot awaiting the coming of Fast Line, his attention was drawn to a man who was poorly clad, walked with a cane, and who undoubtedly was a genuine tramp. To say the least he was a pitiful looking object, but seemed to thoroughly understand how to dupe the people. In his left hand he held a blank piece of white paper, and when he saw some richly dressed individual stepping about he would stand in a position so that the man could not help but pass close by him. When this was done he would go limping after his victim calling to him that he had lost a paper from his clothing. The man naturally would feel his pockets then accept the paper from the tramp,thanking him, etc., and at the same time unfolding it to ascertain its value. After seeing that it is a blank piece of paper he returns it to the tramp with "that doesn't belong to me." The tramp then casts a hungry glance at the well dressed man and kindly asks him for some money. We watched this individual play his game on three persons and each of them dropped a coin in his coal-black hand. When Fast Line pulled into the station this poor (?) fellow limped up to the ticket window and purchased a ticket for Tyrone. He had one of his pockets almost filled with silver, and it is hard to tell how much more he had about his clothing. Strangers, beware of such sinners."

An Elegant Gift Book ; Golden Thoughts on Mother, Home and Heaven. Edited by Rev. Theo. L. Cuyler, D. D., Pastor of Broadway Tabernacle, expressed in a personal letter to the Publisher, E, B. Treat, 5 Cooper Union N. Y.

"This book is as valuable in its contents as it is beautiful in its external appearance. There is something here for almost every experience, and the lessons for earth are all made to point toward the rewards of heaven. The book, as a whole, is worthy of all acceptation, and is especially timely in an age when the glory of the home is so frequently forgotten in the glitter of what is called society."

Price, $2 75. Gilt Edge in a box,$3 50. Two hundred thousand have been printed to meet the demand. Teachers, Ladies and Agents wanted to introduce it.

Shut Off the Water

The engineer at the water works says they are now running the pump all night and ten trokes faster than in daytime and yet it is almost impossible to keep up the water supply This is made so because so many people leave their hydrants open all night to keep them from freezing up. This is a matter that should be at once stopped, and if not done, the water committee will turn off the water from every place where a hydrant is left open all night. A word to the wise is sufficient.

The Pulpit and the Stage.

Rev. F. Shrout, Pastor United Brethren Church, Blue Mound, Kan., says : "I feel it my duty to tell what wonders Dr. King's New Discovery has done for me. My lungs were badly diseased, and my parishioners thought I could live only a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery and am sound and well, gaining 20 lbs. in weight."

Arthur Love manager Love's Funny Folks Combination, writes :"After a thorough trial and convincing evidence, I am confident Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, beats 'em all, and cures when everything else fails. The greatest kindness I can do my many thousand friends is to urge them to try it' Free trial bottles at Keplinger & Co., Drug Store. Regular sizes 50c. and 1.00.

Sunshine and Shadow Wedded.

On Thursday evening Mr. Solomon Confer, aged 75, and who is Milesburg's undertaker, was married to Mrs. Wharton Rider, a young widow aged 25. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Fetzer, of Central City. This seems like the uniting of Sunshine and Shadow but, nevertheless,the News tenders congratulations and hopes they may enjoy many years of happy wedded bliss.

GOOD RESOLUTIONS.

Passed by the Centre County School Director's Association on Thursday.

To the School Director,s Association of Centre County ;

Your executive commitee would submit for your consideration the following :

1.—That we urge upon the Legislature at its coming session, the passage of a law authorizing the several school districts to pay the actual expenses by the several directors from each district in attending the annual and tri-ennial conventions of directors The annual convention being held for the sole purpose of devising and discussing measures for the advancement and promotion of public school work, and the tri-ennial convention for the purpose of electing a county superintendent of public schools, it is but just and wise, that, at least, the expense of the directors while engaged in such work should be paid by the respective school districts,

2—That the directors of Centre county in convention assembled, do hereby request the representatives in the Legislature from the county and the Senator from the senatorial district, at the session of the Legislature to be held in 1891 to do whatever, in the discharge of their duties they can to support and bring about the passage of such a law.

3—That it would be a great help to the directors,result in building of better lighted heated and ventilated school houses, if the department of public instruction would have prepared and published, at the expense of the State for the use of school boards, a work on, as well as containing plans and specifications for the proper construction, heating, lighting and ventilation of rural school houses. For the advancament of this purpose and in the interest of the good health and happiness of the pupils in our schools, we would press upon the department the great need for such a work.

4—We would again call the attention of the directors to the fact that a more abundant supply of apparatus and help in outline maps, tables, measures dictionaries and books of reference will be of great advantage to both the teacher and the pupils and do much, indeed, to advance and promote the efficiency of the schools of the county.

5. That in view of the fact that teachers are, under the law, paid for the attendance upon the session of the county institute the directors emphatically condemn the practice of those teachers who answer present at roll call and then leave the institute and spend their time in running about the town. We insist that it is their duty to be present at the sessions of the institute and that if they are not the County Superintendant shall not certify to their presence and the directors shall not pay for their time.

6. That the Directors' Association of Centre county make overtures to the Department of Public Instruction to prepare and issue to school directors proper books for making the records of the advancement of individual pupils through the graded course of studies adopted for ungraded schools, or adopt the present series of teachers report books to such purpose.

7. We would renew the suggestion made in our last annual report that the several boards of directors in Centre county subscribe at the expense of the district for a copy of the Pennsylvania School Journal for each member of the board.

The Snow, and Results.

What a snow that was! Fully 30 inch of it fell in as many hours. This morning the streets, the surrounding valleys and hills looked as it the clowds themselves had fallen as a mantle over all the earth. And, it has been the cause of some disaster. The coke house and a cow shed at McCoy & Linn's iron works, at Milesburg, fell in because of the immense weight of the snow. In the shed there was a cow and at this writing we know not whether she lives or "has gone to be an angel, etc." At the red school house on the pike a telephone pole was borne to the ground. In the Arbitration room at the court house, because of the heavy atmosphere, it is supposed, the electric lights suddenly went out a sound like as if water was thrown on a red hot stove was apparent for about two seconds when suddenly a lamp fell to the floor and a blue flame shot up from its socket. The whole thing did not last over about four seconds till the lights came out as bright as ever. Another singular and unheard of phenomenon was two distinct flashes of lightning seen Wednesday evening about 10 o'clock or later.

Centre County Bands.

"Amateur," a correspondent writing from Spring Mills to Music and Mirth of Williamsport, has the following to say about the bands of Centre county : —Since the election Band business has been very slow, as the Democrats at Bellefonte for some reason or other did not get up any demonstration to celebrate their great victory. Since writing the former items one of the old and time honored bands of this section has resumed regular practice twice a week. We refer to the Farmers Mills Band, organized in 1865. This Band has had many various experiences and has furnished music many times for the various local picnics and political meetings. The organization has existed without a break and own a good set of instruments and a fine wagon and at present are improving their music.

One of the new bands lately organized in this section is the Half-moon Band of Stormstown. This young band is doing reasonably well and owes its organization and improvements to the efforts of their manager, Mr. Will G. Furst, who has done all he could to bring up the band. He finds it rather hard work as the town is small and the band members widely scattered,but by the earnest efforts they may succeed. One thing is certain if they do not reach a high place in the ranks of bands, Mr. Furst can feel that he at least did his part toward getting his band in shape musically and financially.

One of the oldest bands in our country has within the last year been disbanded. The Rebersburg band. Their beginning dates way back and they were always reasonably successful, but for some reason they concluded to sell out which they did and the seat of war is now near Wolf's store, four miles east of Rebersburg, where a new set of hands are now jamming wind.

Some other bands lately gone under in this section are the Linden Hall Band, which was at one time, in fair shape. The Band at Centre Hall has also died for want of breath, or, probably only sleeping, as we fail to see why so enterprising a town as the "Hall", should be without music.

There is too much of the old idea that a band should play for thanks in this section, and as a consequence bands have somewhat diminished in numbers. There have however been some new ones organized within the last year and only lately one has been organized at Pleasant View, a suburb of Bellefonte, and at present they are doing very well and will ere long be ready to appear in public. Then over in the old town of Aaronsburg where for 20 years they had no band they now have two and both doing well. Bellefonte has a good band under the direction of Dr. John F. Harter,the present Recorder of Centre county ; they are in a prosperous condition, and have a fine outfit ; the people of Bellefonte owe to Mr. Al S. Garman the credit of the band as he has done everything to maintain it. Of course, Mr. Garman is a public spirited man, as the erection of a fine opera house lately has proven.

Other bands in our county may be named as having made improvements, There is the band at Milesburg, it has lately purchased a fine set of silver instruments, this band is prospering under the able leadership of Mr. Frank Weltzler, a fine cornetist, and besides a very agreeable young man who has a host of friends among the musicians of this county. Orville Proudfoot is assistant leader and is developing into a fine cornet player and is with all a fine young man. The Pleasant Gap band, under the able direction of Will H. Noll, has purchased a beautiful new uniform in which they make a fine appearance,and of course they can as usual keep up their end musically. The Challenge Band, of Spring Mills, under the able direction of Mr. W. C. Meyers, has also purchased a new set of silver instruments, and they are now again keeping up their reputation for good music. The old and always popular Millheim band is still in a flourishing condition and may truly be called the "Repasz" band of Centre county.

Citizen—So you think of locating here?
Physician—Yes. I thought some of practicing among you.
Citizen—See here, young man, there's a good opening here for a man as understands his biz, but we don't want no practicing, or experimenting—doctoring's what we want!

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this way they all present, alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent or overbusy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his "practice" until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery.

It's the only medicine for the weaknesses, irregularties and painful derangements peculiar to women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee that it will give satisfaction in every case, or price ($1.00) paid for it will be promptly refunded.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels. One a dose. Sold by druggists. 25 cents a vial.

—The snow is rapidly disappearing.

—According to all signs a coal war is imminent.

—There is more snow coming. Look out for it.

—Did you see anything of Wilson, the escaped murderer?

—Only one day more in which to select your presents.

—Jonathon Searfoss died at his home in this place on Sunday.

—The Redpath Concert company will be in Bellefonte on the 30th.

—Read the article in to-day's paper headed, "The County Institute."

—There is now some talk of those disgraceful banners being removed.

—Mr. William Singer, of Eagleville died on Saturday and was buried to-day.

—The turkeys that were not dispatched on Thanksgiving are now trembling in their boots.

—Cold, rain, sunshine, snow, clouds, ice, sleet, slush, freezing, thawing, blowing, sleighing and no sleighing makes up the daily weather chart.

—Sunday morning was a beautiful morning for traveling. All a person had to do was just let go and they would go. Some went without letting go.

—Whenever "Jason," the versatile Huntingdon county correspondent, fails to have anything else to write about, he pens an article on the venerable Mr. Houck.

—Coal is coming down. Three Bellefonte firms have brought down the price about 30 cents on the ton. This will be good for the poor man who has his coal to buy.

—There are fourteen different kinds of weather served daily to the inhabitants of this zone and yet some people are not satisfied and want to go to the North Pole. Well, if they can get better satisfaction there, let them go.

—The man who at this time of the year leaves his horse standing on the street any length of time without being blanketed doesn't deserve to have a horse and, in addition, is a good subject for a law and order society.

—There is no better time during the year for beginning a course of study in Williams & Rogers' Rochester business university than on the first Monday in January. So many additional pupils are expected at that time that new classes will be formed in all departments.

—In the post office curiosity box there is held or postage letters addressed to James H Atkinson, care of Powelton Iron Co., 308 Walnut St., Philadelphia; Mrs. Amelia Reed, Amelia C H, Virginia; New York Health Agency, 285 Broadway, New York; John G Miller, Fairbrook; and a letter returned to A. W. W.

—Bellefonte's celebrated citizen the venerable War Governor, Andrew G. Curtin, is slowly recovering from the severe chill and cold contracted while in New York a few weeks ago. He is able to sit up and, if he keeps on improving as he has for the past few days, it won't be long until his tall form will once again be a familiar sight on the streets of Bellefonte.

—Sixteen thousand miners were represented at Altoona by delegates from district No. 2, composing Clearfield, Centre, Jefferson, Cambria, Huntingdon, Bedford, Somerset, Blair and Indiana counties. They meet to formulate a demand for an increase of wages, the same to go in effect January 1, 1891. Committees were appointed and some other routine business transacted. The convention will be in session for several days.

—The press of the principal cities of the country with one accord bestow unstinted praise on the comedy of "The Two Thieves." It is full of all the bright, popular music of the day. It is said to contain more novelties than any show on the road. It is directed by a great metropolitan manager, played by a great and magnificent company, headed by one of the cleverest of comedians, Mr. J. Kennedy, and Manager Garman has succeeded in getting it for one night only, Tuesday evening, January 6th, 1891.

—Christmas is now near at hand. Remember that bible text; "It is better to give than receive." While you are paying daily visits to the stores for the purpose of purchasing a gift for some dear friend do you ever think of some poor but very deserving person that would be made supremely happy by the gift of a good meal, a sack of flour, a garment of some kind, a hundred weight of coal or even a loaf of bread. Think of this while you are making your purchases and if you know of any such try the giving of something to them and see if you won't feel better for so doing.

BROKE JAIL.

MURDERER WILSON PRIES THE BARS FROM HIS WINDOW AND THUS MAKES HIS ESCAPE.

No One Hears Him—Searching Far and Near—A Reward of $100 Offered —He Slides Down a Telephone Pole.

Everybody was all excitement in Bellefonte this morning when the announcement was made that John Wilson, the murderer of Waterhouse, had broken jail and made his escape. It is supposed the act was accomplished towards morning. The prisoner had broken an iron bar from his cot and with it forced off the two iron bars that barred the window of his cell. This loostened a large stone which he then removed thus making an aperture just large enough for him to crawl through. The drop to the ground was not great, only about ten feet. Wilson then mounted the scaffold on which Andrews and Hopkins were both executed and which still remains standing in the corner of the jail yard, and thus gained the top of the wall. With a rope made from his bed clothing, he lowered himself to a telephone pole, that stands within reach of the jail wall, and quietly slid down the pole and took French leave. Not the least intimation of anything wrong was had until this morning when Mrs. Cooke, wife of the Sheriff took his breakfast to his cell about seven o'clock. An alarm was at once given, investigation was made and a hunt commenced. Detective Mullen, District Attorney Meyer, Sheriff Cooke, Deputy Wilson and Constable Montgomery are scouring the county in various directions but at this writing—10 a. m.—no trace of the missing man has yet been found.

HIS DESCRIPTION

John Wilson, the escaped murderer is aged about 30 or 35, hair mixed a little with gray, height 5 feet 8½ or 9 inches, weight about 165, eyes light in color, mouth slightly crooked and had a light, sandy mustache. He was dressed in a dark material of some kind. Every man in Centre county will remember Wilson as the man who shot Harry Waterhouse a couple months ago. The grand jury at the November sessions of court returned a "true bill" to the indictment of murder and it was supposed that he would then be given his trial, but his counsel plead for a continuance until January on the plea of ill health and the plea was granted. Wilson has all along been looked upon as a slippery customer and many have predicted that he would escape, but the authorities always considered the "coop" secure. Now that the horse is stolen they will probably be willing to lock the door. It is also generally believed that Wilson is an old "jail bird" if not a great criminal. His reticence about himself and lying about facts known bear out this supposition.

$100 REWARD OFFERED

When his escape became known as a certainty an appeal was made by District Attorney Meyer to the Commissioners to offer a reward, but they refused, as did also Sheriff Cooke, unless backed by the Commissioners, whereupon District Attorney Meyer offered a reward of One Hundred Dollars to be paid for the return of the prisoner to the Bellefonte jail. It is the general opinion that the county should offer a reward of not less than $500, and $1000 if necessary. The escaped prisoner should be recaptured at all hazards and cost. Let the people everywhere be on the lookout, and if a stranger happens around find out who he is.

The County Institute.

The Session of Institute which closed on Friday at noon was one of the most successful that we have had for years. It is true it may not have been a success financially, but it was not held for the purpose of making money.

Institutes are held for the purpose of giving instruction to the teachers of the Public schools, "in the science and art of education" so expressed in the law under which they are held.

The article in the DAILY NEWS of Saturday is unfair to the instructors engaged for the institute, as well as to Prof. Etters, the County Superintendent. Where will you find men better able to give instruction "in the science and art of education," than those who have given their whole life to the study of the art and science of education.

The fling made at Dr. White in the article already referred to is both unfair and unjust. The article must have been written by some one who was in attendance upon the institute but little, who paid no attention to what was said, Dr. White repeatedly stated that his experience as a teacher commenced in the small old fashioned school house, and that what he was telling the teachers on the theory und practice of teaching and the "art and science of education" was the result of his experience. When he addressed the teachers on the subject of punishment he distinctly stated that there were times when the rod must be used, and he just as distinctly, and clearly stated that the use of the rod for all offenses or acts of disobedience committed was wrong. The truth is, that any one, whether teacher or not, with the sense of an owl, must have understood what Dr. White said on the subject of punishment; only a teacher, too lazy to undertake to win love and respect of his pupils, or too brutal to love them himself, would of course find fault with the instructions given by him on that question.

The man who growls about the pet theory of the "Proffessor" and the "Dr." in all probability is loaded with a pet theory of his own and is mad because he was not permitted to unload it at the institute.

When Mr. Fortney appeared before the institute he stated very plainly that he came by the direction of the Centre County Directors Association, to present by direction of the association the following resolution: "That in view of the fact that teachers are, under the law paid for their attendance upon the sessions of the County institute, the directors emphatically condemn the practice of those teachers, who answer present at roll call, and then leave the institute and spend their time running about the town. We insist that it is their duty to be present during the session of institute, and if they are not, the County Superintendent shall certify to their presence and the directors will not pay them for their time."

It is not to be inferred by any means that because the directors association have not complained before that the teachers did not run out at former institutes. The resolution of the Directors' Association on this question was based, not upon what was done at the late institute but upon what observation and experience taught them was an evil which existed at all institutes and it was time that the mischief should be broken up.

Common honesty requires the teachers, as they are paid, to do just what they are paid for.

The law regulating the pay of teachers for attending upon institute provides that "compensation for institute attendance shall be based on this official report made to the several boards of directors * * * * by the proper county superintendent, who shall report the daily attendance of teachers to the respective board by which they are employed and such compensation shall be allowed by the directors * * and paid by the district treasurer to those entitled to receive the same." The pay shall not be less than their per diem pay for actual teaching and shall not exceed two dollars per diem.

The directors are right when they insist that the teachers shall do just what they are paid for, and if they do not they will not pay them. It was also proper that they give notice to the teachers. They cannot complain of snap judgment.

The writer of the article in question gets back and concludes by advocating that the teachers of the county discuss methods and modes of teaching: Striplings teaching their first term, with about as much knowledge of methods and modes of teaching as they have of Greek would be very entertaining and instructive. The attention they would command and the information they would impart on the "art and science of education" would be prodigious. We need just such men to instruct the teachers as we had at the last institute. No teacher with a solid spark of morality about him could sit under the instructive lectures of Dr. White for a week and not be richly benefitted. It is true some may not have had the capacity to comprehend what was said, but that was not the fault of Dr. White or Prof. Etters.

With men like Dr. White for instructors, county institutes can not help but be good. The teachers instructed, elevated and benefitted in mind and heart. From him every thoughtful teacher obtained new ideas, new thought and methods, which if honestly and consciously put in practice in the schools of its county will make better teachers, better pupils and produce grander and holier results. AN OLD TEACHER.

The New Fire Steamer.

The new fire steamer has at last arrived. It came on Friday and was tested on Saturday afternoon. At first they stationed the engine near Charlie Rine's and cast the suction pipe in the creek. While there they threw two streams over the Bush House and two over Bush Arcade, making four streams in all. This it accomplished under a pressure of but 90 pounds of steam. From the Bush House the engine was drawn by two horses up High street to the Diamond and the suction pipe attached to the water plug on the corner at Achenbach's jewelry store. The hose was carried up High street to the jail. Before starting the steamer the water was turned on. The natural force did not throw it half way across the park in the rear of the court house and hardly high enough for a two story building. Then the steamer was started and when under full pressure it threw the stream from north to south High street and high enough to go over the jail. The hose was then drawn down to the court house and one stream was thrown clear over the steeple of the hall of justice. From there they visited Linn and Curtin streets and at every place the steamer gave the best of satisfaction. To say the Logan boys are pleased would not be half expressive of their delight. And, they have reason to be satisfied, for the new Steamer, on which is engraved in various places the word "Logan," is a beauty. In addition it is one of the lightest built, just suited to Bellefonte, and yet so evenly constructed as to combine great power and working capacity.

The Search Unavailed.

No tidings have yet been gleaned respecting Newton Graham, who went with others on a hunting expedition to the mountains in Clearfield county. He left his party in consequence of the boot he was wearing hurting his heel, and intended going to Clearfield for a pair of gum boots, but he has not been heard from to date, notwithstanding that several gangs of men have been scouring the district around in hopes at least of finding his body. It is feared he met with an accident, and that being helpless, the snow has now covered him from view. A reward has been offered for the body if found within thirty days.

Mr. George L Potter has hanging on the wall of his office a fine steel engraving of the famous picture painted by that celebrated artist, Mr. Thomas Cole, (brother of Robert Cole) "Mount Etna." It was presented to him, enclosed in a handsome frame, by the Etna Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn. which company Mr. Potter represents in this county.

Amusement Notes.

Peck & Fursman's Uncle Tom's Cabin company played to a full house in Garman's opera house Tuesday night. The orchestra music was good and the play was fair.

LIZZIE EVANS.

The next play in the opera house will be on Tuesday evening, December 30th, when Lizzie Evans, the renowned western actress, will appear.

REDPATH CONCERT COMPANY.

On Tuesday evening, December 30th, the Redpath Concert Company will appear in the court house under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. This is the fourth entertainment in the Star Course series and should be well patronized.

THE TWO THIEVES.

To what a wonderful science business has been brought in the last few years. Think of a great theatrical magnate like Col. Snellweisner, managing five big attractions at one and the same time—three in Europe and one in America. This is only possible through the aid of those time-saving inventions, the telegraph and telephone. We are assured that the Colonel has positively signed a contract with Manager Garman to play our town for one night, January 6th, '91, presenting his universal success, "The Two Thieves," with the great English comedian, Mr. John J. Kennedy, supported by a magnificent company of singers and dancers.

From St. Joseph Hospital

A young girl here had been suffering for 12 years with Blood Diseases until she had lost the use of her limbs, and was subject to many troubles incident to the disease. The physicians declared her case incurable, and predicted that her life would come to a speedy end. After taking S. S. S. she recuperated so fast that it was plain that she had obtained a new lease on life, and she has continued to grow better until her permanent cure is assured. Many other patients in our hospital have obtained signal benefit from S. S. S., and it has become quite a favorite in our house.

THE ST. JOSEPH HOSPITAL,
Highland, Ill.

Cured Herself and Her Child.

S. S. S. has relieved me of a terrible scrofula, from which I had suffered for years. It affected my nose first as catarrh, then carries off the bone, and continued to eat until it destroyed the soft bone in the right side of the nose, then went to my throat, and later on to my lungs, and it looked as if I was doomed. S. S. S. has cured me, and has also cured my little girl of the same disease.

The Two Thieves.

The people who patronize amusements in this town are continually crying for something worth seeing. They say that they are entitled to the best. To prove that he is constantly trying to secure it for them, Manager Garman announces that he has secured Colonel Snellweisner's great attraction "The Two Thieves," which will positively appear here for one night only, January 6, '91.

Lawyer Pullman is an Austin lawyer who has a great reputation for collecting bad debts. If the money can be got out of a man he will get it. It was to this lawyer that Bob Binkley referred when he was requested to run quick for a doctor, as a neighbor's child had swallowed a coin. "Doctor be blowed. I'd run for Lawyer Pullman; he'll get the money out of the kid quicker than a dozen doctors, said Bob.

Mike—Pat, wat wages do you be getting now, Pat?

Pat—One hoondred dollars.

Mike—Phwat? One hoondred dollars a mont?

Pat—One hoondred dollars for one hoondred days.

New York Fashions.

EVENING DRESSES. JEWELRY.

Very big or very low coiffures are equally fashionable, but it must be absolutely one or the other; as no neutral ground is tolerated in this department of fashion. An appearance of ease and grace is the first requisite in the arrangement of the hair, and short fluffy curls are now placed at the back of a coiffure and also on the top, in order to prevent a stiff outline. Braids, pinned close to the head are very stylish, also loops, and gilt or shell pins are necessary to keep the hair in place, and serve a double purpose, that of being useful as well as pretty. Variety in bangs are always to be seen, especially in water curls, and the ordinary one for street wear is cut quite close on the sides and pointed in the middle. Long shell and gilt pins are much employed, also high tortoise shell combs, but as these are trying to irregular features and quite expensive, they will not be used to any great extent. Ladies should realize that the plainest costume may be made attractive by a stylish and appropriate arrangement of the hair.

EVENING TOILETTES.

Pretty and inexpensive party dresses are of China silk in evening shades, either plain or in combination of plain and flowered silk; trimmings of ribbon being quite popular. While the Princesse style undoubtedly leads in costly dinner and ball toilettes, still basques and round waists are used to a considerable extent, especially in soft, clinging materials, such as crepe de China, gauzes and mousseline de soir. All transparent materials are worn over silk undershirts of the same color, with full shirred waists and puffed sleeves, set off by bows of ribbon or velvet, and pointed velvet or gilt belt, having a large rosettein front. Round necks are more popular for evening wear than any other shape, and are trimmed with a row of lace, a puffing of some airy material, or a delicate line of silk or gilt passementerie. Many evening toilets are high neck, and a V front and back of folds, lace, passementerie or embroidery is still very stylish. Sleeves for evening wear are in great variety as regards size and length; a band of feathers or a two inch strap passes for a sleeve, or a very narrow puff standing high on the shoulder, while in some cases a large full puff reaches almost to the elbow and is edged with lace. Another style is large and flowing on the inside, and looped on the shoulder to show the whole arm, and it is by no means unusual to see long sleeves with low neck. In one of the latest designs at the elegant establishment of Lord & Taylor, may be seen a plain, round sleeve set in the arm-hole without any fullness whatever and finished off with lace, having three fancy buttons on the outside.

JEWELRY.

The originality of design in new jewelry is very striking. Expensive watches for ladies are pigmies in size, but giants in beauty and delicacy of workmanship. As a rule, from three to four inches is the fashionable length for chatelaine with watch attached, and in many cases are still smaller. A new idea is a large, covered beetle, which may be fastened to the waist or placed on the corsage, and pressing a spring, the wings rise and disclose a tiny watch. Another fancy shows the back and sides of a small watch covered with seed pearls, the short chatelaine similarly adorned and finished off by a heart shaped ornament formed entirely of pearls. Ladies fancy pins are in low knots, rosebuds, English double velvet with a diamond or pearl centre, swords, minute orchids and chrysthemums.
